Paltz Drug Friction Triggers Resignation

By JON POWERS

NEW PALTZ

Dr. Jeffery Wiersum has announced his resignation as chairman of the New Paltz Narcotics Guidance Council because of friction from within the council and the community over the establishment of the controversial methadone treatment program for heroin addicts.

Wiersum informed Town Supervisor Anthony Moriello of his decision to resign from the council in a letter dated August 1. That letter will be formally presented to the town board at its regular meeting tonight.

Charging that the town board has refused to approve a Methadone Maintenance Treatment Program for the Narcotics Guidance Council because of pressure from a "small but vocal minority" of New Paltz residents, Wiersum predicted a marked increase in crime for the New Paltz area once the limited methadone treatment program now in effect is stopped completely in coming weeks.

Wiersum, one of six members of the Medical Associates of New Paltz, has advocated the use of methadone since the council's inception in March, 1969. The Medical Associates group has utilized the methadone treatment program to a limited extent this year, but that program has since been outlawed by the state because it has not gained approval of the town board.

Because of this, contended Wiersum, the council has lost its chance to receive $1,000 in state aid for every patient treated this year with methadone. He also expressed dismay that communities in surrounding counties are beginning to approve the program in greater numbers.

In addition to reprimanding the town board, Wiersum also strongly criticized a fellow member of the Narcotics Guidance Council, Dr. Robert Taylor. Wiersum alleged that Taylor has "a blind spot towards methadone maintenance, either due to ignorance, misinformation, or some misguided philosophy..." Continued bickering between the two, said Wiersum, has thwarted council efforts to solve problems other than methadone treatment. Wiersum added that he will not work with Taylor as long as the latter is a member of the local council.

Wiersum also criticized the town board for appointing Taylor, contending that the council is now overloaded professionally.

In contending that the methadone treatment, while limited, has still been extremely successful in New Paltz, Wiersum stated that those addicts currently being treated with methadone are "drug free, crime free and holding down jobs." He also noted that, once patients are withdrawn from methadone they "will redevelop their drug hunger at a higher level than before and I can absolutely guarantee a resurgence of heroin plus its accompanying soft drug companions coming back into town and the crime rate going back up."

Wiersum later told The Freeman that he doubts if the methadone program will be adopted and accepted in New Paltz in future years. He added, however, that he hopes townspeople will speak out in favor of the treatment program once they realize the alternatives.

Town Supervisor Anthony Moriello, who first recomended Wiersum for the council position, expressed dismay over his announced intentions to resign. "I have a high personal regard for Jeff," Moriello told The Freeman, "and I would like him to stay on and continue his work."

Moriello also supported Wiersum's fight for the acceptance of methadone treatment in New Paltz. "Methadone," said Moriello, "has a genuine place in the rehabiliitation program of addicts." He added that a clearer explanation of its use should be attempted in order to dissuade the fears of sceptical townspeople.

At the same time, Moriello defended the town board's position on the matter. "A recomendation for the adoption of the methadone treatment had never been formally presented to the town board by the council," the town supervisor stated. He added that a majority of the Narcotics Guidance Council has not yet expressed official favor for the program.

Wiersum's resignation is effective Sept. 15. He stated that his final act as chairman of the council will be to report his "first hand experiences" with the methadone treatment program in other communities.

Nixon and Vetoes— A Reversal in Works

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democrats, reacting sharply to President Nixon's veto of education and government agency money bills, spearheaded an attack today to reverse the chief executive's action.

The Democrats were expected to receive some support from Republicans who earlier had urged Nixon to let the bills become law without his signature.

Nixon vetoed Tuesday the $4.4 billion education appropriation and $18 billion measure to run a variety of federal agencies on grounds they pose "a threat to every American's pocketbook."

The two bills would have added nearly $1 billion to the administration's budget recommendations. Nixon said they represent "the kind of big spending that would drive up prices or demand higher taxes."

House Democratic leaders, hoping to capture the two-thirds margin necessary to override Presidential vetoes, scheduled the showdown votes Thursday as the first order of business.

Democratic leaders were optomistic about their chances for overriding the Office of Education bill, but less certain about the prospects for the larger measure. Many Republicans, including Minority Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, shared that appraisal.

The announcement that Nixon vetoed the bills prompted a sharp exchange on the House floor. Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., said Nixon was attempting to shift the blame for inflation and high interest rates to the Democrats.

Boggs said the $1 billion addition to the two measures amounted to less than half the additional cost to the government from increased interest rates.

Ford, however, said, "When you spend more than you take in, you inevitably add to the cost of interest to the federal government."

Nixon said his vetoes were "painful, but necessary to hold down the rising cost of living."

Democratic national chairman Larry O'Brien said Nixon's action "illustrated in starkest terms the distorted priorities of his administration."

The overriding cause of the rising cost of living is "Nixon's refusal to use the powers of the presidency to control excessive price and wage decisions, and his refusal to use the economic tools which Congress has given him," O'Brien added.

Democrats hoped the lure of big money allotments for veterans' hospitals and schools would give impetus to their drive.

One bill would provide $18 billion in new funds for the Veterans' Administration and a score of other agencies.

One of the larger boosts in the education bill was $126 million in funds for so-called impacted school districts heavily populated by children of federal employes. Another hike over the budget was $232 million for various secondary and elementary school programs.

The impacted school districts are scattered among more than 350 congressional districts.

Biggest allotment in the $18 billion measure is $9 billion for the Veterans Administration. This includes $105 million more than the President requested, all of the increase being in medical care programs including hospital construction.

Regardless of which way the voting goes, Democrats believe their expected almost solid vote against the vetoes cannot hurt them politically in this congressional election year. But the 243 Democrats don't make up two-thirds of the House membership. There are 187 Republicans.

President Nixon referred to the political angle in his veto message.

"My veto of both these bills is painful," he said, "but necessary to hold down the rising cost of living."

"At election time it is tempting for people in politics to say 'yes' to every spending bill," he added.

For him to approve the bills, the President said, "would be saying yes to a higher cost of living, yes to higher interest rates, yes to higher taxes."

President Nixon is batting .500 on vetoes with the 1970 Congress.

Soviet and Bonn Treaty Heals Some of the Wounds

MOSCOW (UPI)—The leaders of the Soviet Union and West Germany today signed a mutual nonaggression treaty in a ceremony that formally erased many of the disputes that soured their relations for 25 years.

Chancellor Willy Brandt of West Germany and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin of the Soviet Union sat at a long table in St. Catherine's hall to sign the document, the result of more than eight months of negotiations.

It was the most significant agreement between the two powers since 1955 when an earlier West German chancellor—the late Konrad Adenauer—traveled to Moscow to sign the documents opening diplomatic relations.

Looking on at the ceremony were most of the Soviet Union's most powerful men, including Leonid I. Brezhnev, the Communist party general secretary, and members of the 11-man party Politburo that rules the country.

Brandt and Kosygin sat side by side, and Brandt donned black-rimmed glasses. Then both men signed simultaneously, and passed the bound copies of the treaty along the table to Foreign Ministers Walter Scheel of West Germany and Andrei A. Gromyko of the Soviet Union to be signed by them.

When they finished signing, a translator from the West German Embassy stepped between them to aid in a brief chat. Then the two men stood and shook hands, somberly, for nearly a full minute for photographers.

Next, Brezhnev aproached to exchange a few words, smilingly, with Brandt and the large group of Soviet and West German officials broke into small conversational knots.

Earlier today, Brandt placed a wreath at a memorial to Soviet World War II dead.

Brandt, accompanied by the members of his official delegation, approached the war memorial with its orange flame bearing a wreath draped with the black, red and gold flag of West Germany.

It bore the inscription, "The federal chancellor of the Federal German Republic."

After the signing ceremonies Brandt and the Soviet leaders planned a meeting to discuss the entire range of Bonn-Moscow relations, including the fate of Berlin, West German diplomats said.

Brandt is the first West German head of state to visit the Soviet Union since the late Chancellor Konrad Adenauer came to Moscow in 1955 to establish diplomatic relations between the two former foes.

Bonn government sources said it was likely Brandt would invite Kosygin to pay an official visit to West Germany.

Before leaving Bonn Tuesday—a trip delayed two hours by a bomb scare—the West German leader outlined in a statement his hopes for the treaty.

"With the signature of this treaty between the Federal Republic of Germany and the U.S.S.R. a long overdue attempt to reach a settlement with the East can begin seriously," he said.

"Despite the differing social systems, this relaxation treaty should help improve relations between East and West."

The treaty between the two nations that twice this century fought wars which killed millions of their citizens was worked out after seven months of preliminary talks. Andrei A. Gromyko, the Soviet foreign minister, and Walter Scheel, his West German counterpart, initialed the document last Friday.

West on Proposed Charter...More Time

By MATT SPIRENG

WOODSTOCK

William R. West, Jr., Ulster County Legislator from the Woodstock District, and a member of the legislature's Legislative and Rules Committee, said he will recommend that the proposed County Charter not be released from the Legislature to go on the ballot in this November's election.

Speaking at an open-to-the-public meeting of the Woodstock Township Taxpayers Association, Inc. (WTTA), on Tuesday evening, West explained that the reason for his recommendation was not due to failings or merits in the proposed charter, but was to give both the legislature and the public more time to look at, study, discuss and deliberate over the charter.

According to West, the Ulster County Legislature would have to act on the proposed charter by September 3 in order to get it on November's ballot, according to law. He suggested that this did not leave enough time for proper deliberation or discussion of the measure.

The proposed charter, which was drawn up and presented to the Legislature "some months ago" by the Charter Commission, is still in the hands of the Legislative and Rules Committee, said West. He went on to explain that after the proposed charter comes out of committee, with possible suggested amendments, the entire Legislature should go over it carefully, with much open discussion, before it is presented to the public for a vote.

Even then, West continued, the public should be given considerable time to look over and discuss the pros and cons of the proposed charter before being asked to vote on it.

When West asked for a show of hands from the approximately 30 people in attendence if they were familiar with the proposed charter, no hands were raised. "I too have not had as full an opportunity to become familiar with the charter as I would like," commented West.

The Legislator explained that the main purposes of a County Charter are to give the county a means to modify its present system of government, and to give the county home rule.

"The single most glaring change is the establishment of an elected county executive," said West.

Under terms of the proposed charter, a county executive would be elected by the people for a term of four years, and would have, among others, the powers and duties to appoint all department and agency heads, subject to the approval of the Legislature, and would hold the power of veto over measures passed by the Legislature unless the veto were overridden by a two-thirds majority vote.

Under present laws, each of the 33 legislators holds an equal vote, and none holds the power of veto.

West went on to discuss what he considered as positive and negative aspects of the proposed charter.

On the negative side, West said that the cost and/or savings to the county under the system of government proposed in the charter cannot readily be figured. Other negative aspects he mentioned were the possibility of confrontation between executive and legislative branches, and the possibility of building up another bureaucracy.

Positive aspects mentioned by the Legislator were that the charter provides for a strong hand at the helm of the county government, and presents a good possibility of removing inefficiencies and "getting things moving."

In summarizing his feelings, West said, "I would hope the charter never become a political issue. It should stand or fall on its own merits."

"The proposed charter requires deep and prolonged deliberation and should get full exposure," he added.

At the conclusion of West's talk, WTTA president, Walter H. Schulman said he approved of West's not wanting the proposed charter rushed through the legislature, to which those in attendence responded with applause.

Schulman went on to say that he felt the charter did not add to the power the county already has of home rule. "It is only pulling together powers the county already has," he commented.

The County Legislature has the power to appoint an executive or manager, added Schulman, who went on to say that personally he would not accept the proposed charter as it now stands.

During a question and comment period which followed, West said that although it has not yet been discussed, he would "guess" that the county executive's salary would be somewhere in the range of twenty to twenty-five thousand dollars a year.

West also explained that the proposed charter could be brought up before a special election or next year's general election if it is not brought before the voters this November.

Holdup, Burglary Under Probe

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSON

Investigations of an alleged holdup and robbery of a 7-year-old shoe shine boy that resulted in an arrest of a 19-year-old youth, and a burglary at an Albany Avenue residence that reportedly netted $1,416 in cash, are being continued by city detectives.

Arrested on Tuesday by detectives on a warrant was David Coddington, unemployed, of First Street, Connelly. He was held in lieu of $1,000 bail pending arraignment before City Judge Hubert A. Richter.

According to authorities, the young victim of the alleged robbery, told investigators that he was walking along Downs Street just off Broadway at about 6:30 p.m. on July 31 when he was accosted by two young men. The pair, police said, allegedly dragged the boy along the railroad tracks between Albany Avenue and the Route 587 overpass.

The boy reportedly told police, his shirt was ripped from his back and tied around his mouth. His assailants, authorities said, removed the laces from the boy's sneakers and secured his wrists, and then they allegedly took his belt and tightened it around the victim's legs.

One of the pair, police noted, was accused of holding a knife against the boy as money was demanded. The boy, who had been out shining shoes in the area, told the youths he only had about $2 with him. The money was allegedly taken and the boy was left alone in a wooded area, according to investigators.

Sometime later, the shoe shine boy, managed to free himself and he reported the incident to authorities. Search of the area failed to find any trace of the two youths.

Investigation was continued and yesterday Coddington was arrested. The boy's name is being withheld because of his age.

The house burglary was reported to police at 10 p.m. yesterday by Mrs. Marie N. Empt of 282 Albany Avneue.

Detective Lt. Charles McCullough said Mrs. Empt told investigators that she returned to her home at about 5 p.m., but didn't go to her bedroom until about 10 p.m., when she discovered her watch with diamonds was missing.

Police said the woman subsequently discovered that $16 in change had been taken from a box on her dresser, and later she noted that another box that reportedly had contained $1,400 in cash had been emptied.

Investigators checked the premises and police reported that no evidence of a forced entry through doors had been found. Police said that two windows in the living room apparently had been left unlatched.

Uruguay Rebels Warn on Search

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — An American agronomist and a Brazilian diplomat held prisoner by leftist guerrillas are well, the rebels said Tuesday night. But the kidnapers said they would kill the captives if police and army searchers found them.

"Sentence still has not been passed" on Claude L. Fly, 65, of Fort Collins, Colo., and Consul Aloysio Mares Dias Gomide, 41, said the Tupamaro guerrillas in a communique left in a restaurant. It added: "The comrades who are guarding the arrested diplomats have definite orders to execute them if repressive forces arrive."

There was no indication of any easing of the search some 5,000 police and soldiers have been making.

The Tupamaros carried out an execution threat on Monday when they murdered Dan A. Mitrione, 50, of Richmond, Ind., after the government rejected the rebels' demand for release of an estimated 150 prisoners.

Mitrione, an adviser to the Uruguayan police, and Dias Gomide were kidnapped separately July 31. Fly, an adviser to the Agriculture Ministry, was abducted last Friday after President Jorge Pacheco Areco refused to negotiate with the Tupamaros.

Hand-written notes from Fly and Dias Gomide to their wives were found with the communique.

Police said the communique and the notes were authentic.

About 20 Tupamaros have been arrested during police sweeps since the abductions, and the rebel communique warned: "The oligarchs of the government . . . the repressive forces and the U.S. advisers will answer" if any harm comes to those arrested. They include some of the organization's top leaders.

Meanwhile, there was considerable local uneasiness over reports of Brazilian military measures along the border. One newspaper announced in large black type that Brazil had moved "parachute troops to the border." Newspapers in Brazil said military patrols along the border were being strengthened to prevent any Tupamaros from crossing into Brazil.

The Brazilian government in a note Monday night urged the Uruguayan government to meet the rebels' ransom demand.

Rocky on His Own

LAKE OF THE OZARKS, Mo. (AP) — New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller all but exluded President Nixon and Vice President Agnew from his re-election bid Tuesday, saying he'd like to keep his campaign his own.

But Rockefeller's comments, delivered at a news conference here, drew rebuttals from National Democratic Chairman Lawrence O'Brien.

"I'm keeping national politics and personalities out of this campaign," Rockefeller said, at the 62nd National Governor's Conference.

The three-term governor faces former Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg in his bid to serve an unprecedented fourth term.

Rockefeller said he didn't mean to imply that he wouldn't consider Nixon and Agnew assets, but that he intends to keep the national issues as divorced as much as possible from New York issues.

"This is a very tough campaign," Rockefeller said, "and it should be decided in New York. National figures are always welcome in New York, but I want my campaign to be my own."

For Manson... Some Advice

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Defense lawyer Irving Kanarek has been told that his questioning of Linda Kasabian about drugs, sex and her search for God is getting repetitious and he had better wrap it up.

The instruction came from Judge Charles H. Older Tuesday after Kanarek, the lawyer for Charles Manson, finished another session of cross examining Mrs. Kasabian, the state's key witness. The 21-year-old blonde has admitted being at the scene of seven killings.

Mrs. Kasabian, who was in her 12th day of testimony and whose voice was scratchy after Kanarek's questions, said she forgot about God" while living at a hippie ranch with Manson and his followers and fell under Manson's spell because of "everything about him."

"It was the way he spoke, the way he walked, the way he danced, the way he made love," she said.

At the end of the session, Older told Kanarek that it appeared he was running out of questions and the lawyer had "better wrap up your cross examination..."

At one point, the prosecution objected to a question about Mrs. Kasabian's sexual activity before going to the ranch and Kanarek asked to approach the bench.

It appeared Older was about to discipline Kanarek but all he did was tell Manson's lawyer and Deputy District Attorney Aaron Stovitz to desist from interrupting each other.

A short time later he ordered Kanarek to end his cross examination of the state's key witness.

Dutchess County Investigations: Homicide and Fatal Accident

DOVER PLAINS

An apparent homicide and attempted suicide and a fatal accident at a saw mill in this area were under investigation today by State Police. The double-shooting incident may be presented to a Dutchess County grand jury, authorities said.

The victim of the fatal shooting was identified by troopers as 52-year-old Antonio Arjonaga of Moores Mills, near the village of Millbrook about 12 miles east of Poughkeepsie.

According to investigators Arjonaga was shot by Sebastian Reyes, 47, also of Moores Mills, as the two men stood on Sunset High Road not far from their homes last evening. After Arjonaga was felled by three bullets fired from a .38 caliber revolver, Reyes reportedly turned the gun on himself.

Reyes was given emergency treatment before being rushed to Vassar Hospital in Poughkeepsie where his condition was described as critical.

Troopers reported that investigation indicated that Arjonaga and Reyes had engaged in a feud, reportedly related to Reyes' wife.

Authorities said that as yet no charges had been filed pending the outcome of the condition of Reyes. The district attorney's office said that if the wounded man survives, the case probably will be presented to the grand jury in the near future.

The incident is still under investigation by BCI officers from Troop K.

Meanwhile, State Police reported that James R. Ashby, 29, of this township, died Tuesday after being hit by a 300-pound log that fell from a truck he was helping to unload at Kelly's Saw Mill Inc., off Route 22 near here.

Troopers said that Ashby, a fork lift operator at the plant, was aparently unhooking a chain that held the lags when the mishap occurred.

Mayor Meets on Broadway Road Job

KINGSTON

Mayor Francis R. Koenig met with members of the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, the Callanan Road Improvement Company, Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp., the City Water Department, and the New York Telephone Company today in an effort to iron out problems on the agency's new road in Broadway East.

"I think that the problems can be ironed out," the mayor told The Freeman today. "Perhaps if we can get all the principals to discuss it we can avoid future problems."

The problem seems to be one of coordination between the Callanan work crews which are building a new four-line Broadway and the utilities which are replacing their underground lines at the same time. There have been instances of power breaks because of construction; only last week, some 650 phone customers lost service due to a break in Broadway East.

Yesterday, the contractor notified James G. Connors, director of the agency, that he was suspending work on the major part of the contract, although continuing with minor items, until the utilities had completed their work.

"We have no indication at all that they've walked off the job," Connors told The Freeman. About 75 per cent of the 20 man work crew was laid off for what Connors expects to be a period of about two weeks. "The utilities have indicated that it will take them about two weeks to finish up their work. Full time work on the road should resume then," Connors said.

Meanwhile, Connors said, the remaining members of the Callanan crew will be working with the agency pinpointing corrective measures the agency wants carried out on the job in accordance with contract specifications.

Koenig met with Connors, George Beck, agency attorney, and the agency's engineers Friday night to discuss the problem.

"We have to get these difficulties worked out as soon as possible," the mayor said. "It's causing a hardship on businesses in the Broadway East area now, and in a month, the children will be returning to school. I'm concerned about the health and welfare of the residents of that area."

Koenig said that Anthony J. Marcelli, president of Callanan, headquartered in South Bethlehem, agreed to attend today's meeting with members of his staff.

Man Killed in Greene Fire

ASHLAND

A 63-year-old man perished and his 62-year-old invalid wife was in critical condition as the result of a fire of undetermined origin that erupted early today in their frame home on Route 23 in this Greene County township.

Leeds State Police said after a preliminary investigation that Thomas Wesley Paterson lost his life in the blaze that was discovered at about 1 a.m.

Patterson's wife, Rosie, who had previously suffered a stroke, was taken from the burning building and rushed to Greene County Memorial Hospital in Catskill suffering smoke inhalation. She was later transferred to the Albany Medical Center Hospital where her condition was described as critical.

Troopers said a passerby, Leo McDonald of Ashland, spotted the flames. He hurried to the house and awakened Mr. and Mrs. William Sutton, occupants of the second floor, but he was unable to return because of intense heat and smoke.

Authorities said the Patersons were found near a telephone in a hallway between the living room and bedroom of their first floor apartment. The fire, is was said, apparently erupted in the living room. The cause is under investigation by State Police BCI agents.

It was reported that Sutton summoned firemen from the local company.

The extent of damage to the residence was not determined The Suttons made their way to safety without incident, authorities said.

One-Way Tolls Begin on Bridges

KINGSTON

Motorists crossing the Hudson River on any of the bridges or tunnels that span the waterway began paying one-way tolls today when traveling from west to east.

Those vehicles crossing from east to west were able to cross non-stop.

For instance, cars going from Kingston to Rhinebeck pay a 50 cent or doubl toll. Those traveling from Rhinebeck to Kingston pay nothing.

The new "round-trip" plan went into effect at 2 p.m.

The Port Authority and the New York Bridge Authority instituted the plan on nine Hudson River Bridges and tunnels and three bridges connecting Staten Island and New Jersey to speed the traffic flow.

Though police reported no serious problems in the early morning hours when traffic was light, they said there might be delays during the rush hour as drivers adjusted to the new system.

In some cases those heading into the city were concerned at learning of the higher tolls until it was pointed out they would make the opposite crossing free.

The affected facilities are the George Washington, Kingston-Rhinecliff, Mid-Hudson, Newburgh-Beacon, Rip Van Winkle, Bear Mountain and Tappan Zee Bridges and the Holland and Lincoln Tunnels on the Hudson. Also the Outerbridge Crossing, the Bayonne Bridge and the Goethals Bridge between Staten Island and New Jersey.

Turck Pleads Innocent to Larceny, Check Charges

KINGSTON

Rudolph T. Turck, a Kingston investment broker who was indicted on three counts of second degree grand larceny and one count of issuing a fraudulent check by the grand jury on July 29 of this year, was arraigned in county court today before County Judge Raymond J. Mino and entered an innocent plea.

Turck was represented by his attorney Frank Martocci, who requested time to make motions in regard to the indictment. Judge Mino granted him until Aug. 26 to make the motions.

Assistant District Attorney Edward M. P. Green represented the people during today's proceedings.

Turck, arrested by State Police BCI officers at Kennedy Airport in New York on March 27, faces charges on more than $50,000 in the illegal transactions.

Arrival of Clearwater

Rhinebeck Plans Celebration

RHINEBECK

An elaborate celebration is scheduled for Thursday to coincide with the arrival of the sloop Clearwater at the Rhinecliff dock, according to organizer Justice DeWitt Gurnell.

Rhinebeck Historical Day, under the auspices of the Rhinebeck Historical Society, will include two separate tours of historical points in the town and village.

And the docking of the Clearwater will be heralded by a parade from the Rhinecliff square down to the river dock, led by the Dutch Arms Fife and Drum Corps at 10:30 a.m.

Following this will be children who will endeavor to pick up all of the litter in their path and will deposit this in two large receptacles at the docksite.

This is in keeping with a "clearwater and clean land" theme, said Gurnell.

Two cannons, which ordinarily repose in front of the Beekman Arms Hotel, will be fired in honor of the docking of the sloop and the corps will render the traditional naval "Welcome Aboard."

Justice Gurnell and Councilman Robert Wolfert will represent the town government, and will give welcoming remarks, after which the program will be turned over to members of the crew of the sloop.

The first of two tours will be held from the Town Hall at about 11:30 a.m., and points of interest in the village will be shown in a walking group led by Gurnell.

The second tour will begin at 3 p.m. from the Town Hall, and will consist of an auto caravan to historic points in the outlying town.

Persons interested in making these tours should register at the Beekman Arms Hotel so an estimate of the numbers can be determined.

Of special interest along Rhinebeck's river frontage are two docks, the Rhinebeck (formerly Schatzell) dock and Long Dock.

Gurnell told The Freeman that George Washington stayed at the Jacob Kipp house and docked at Long Dock when he crossed the Hudson River from Kingston during the Revolutionary War to visit with generals in Dutchess County. His initials are carved in the house.

The Kipp family, originally of Kingston, ran the early ferry service across the river; the last ferry crossed at Rhinecliff in 1957 when the bridge was opened.

The "Schatzell" dock, where the Clearwater will moor, was a stop for the "Mary Powell," which Gurnell described as "queen of the Hudson River pleasure boats." It was a two-wheeler steamboat.

And the Hudson River Dayline cruisers stopped at Rhinecliff "before Kingston Point," noted Gurnell after World War I. The nightline ships also docked here, where the water runs from 30 to 40 feet deep.

Gurnell, in organizing and coordinating the event tomorrow, emphasized to the Sloop Restoration Headquarters that a joint effort would benefit both groups.

"Since the ferry has stopped running," he said yesterday, "the dock area has gone downhill fast. We will try to stimulate interest in restoration of the dock, which is the town's only public access to the river."

The justice said that folk singing in the evening is planned under lights, and "possibly a teenage dance with live music."

Taiclet Reelected Chairman Of Recreation Commission

EMILE G. TAICLET

KINGSTON

Emile G. Taiclet was unanimously elected to his fourth term as chairman of the Kingsto Recreation Commission at the regular monthly meeting of the commission last night.

Taiclet was nominated by Larry Kithcart. The nomination was seconded by Robert Stenson.

In a relatively light schedule, the commissioners also reelected Andrew J. Murphy III, city recreation superintendent, to another term as secretary to the commission.

In addition they cited Ronald Gabriel, summer program director and his staff for "an outstanding job" in the city parks and playgrounds this year. The summer program will end on Friday.

Murphy said that it will take about a month for the commission to draw up the necessary forms for the city to apply for matching funds to the state for the erection of eight mini-parks in the city. The Common Council approved the parks at its regular meeting last week, setting a $70,000 cost limit on the project, half to be paid for by the state.

Taiclet, a local businessman, ran an unsuccessful campaign for alderman in the Third Ward on the Republican ticket two years ago. He has been president for Wiltwyck Hose for almost 10 years.

The city recreation commission, formed by former Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan in 1966, meets on the second Monday of every month.

Youth Escapes Crash Injury

KINGSTON

A 19-year-old youth narrowly escaped injury shortly after midnight today when the car he was driving went out of control on North Street and hit a fire hydrant and a utility pole just north of the Strand.

Robert J. Sickler Jr., of 16 Hunter Street, told police he was northbound when something apprently went wrong with the steering apparatus before he lost control.

Sickler was cited by police for driving at a speed not reasonable or prudent. The summons is returnable in City Court on Saturday.

NEW ASSISTANT — Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. (R) has announced the appointment of Alan Coffey Jr., as legislative assistant on his Washington, D. C. staff. Coffey, 25, who was formerly with the Department of Housing and Urban Development, replaces Gary Curran who has been with the congressman for the past 18 months and was recently transferred to the position of legislative liaison with the Appalachian Regional Commission. Coffey will visit 28th District HUD staffs and city officials during the third week of August.

Rhinebeck Student Joins Congressman Fish Staff

KINGSTON

Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr., has announced that Sara E. Frazer, of Rhinebeck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Frazer, has joined his Washington staff.

"Sally first worked with me last year as a summer intern, and I am delighted that circumstances permitted her coming with us following her graduation from Mount Holyoke this year," Congressman Fish said.

According to Congressman Fish, Miss Frazer has been assigned as secretary to his Administrative Assistant, John D. Barry. Barry, who comes from Catskill, in addition to his duties as Administrative Assistant, also handles the press relations in the Congressman's office.

"I feel particularly lucky to get Miss Frazer in this particular job, as for press, radio and the communications field, it is important to have someone who knows the District, rather than to know Administrative Departments as is essential in other phases of our work in Washington," Congressman Fish said.

Miss Frazer, 22, attended Rhinebeck Central School, before her undergraduate work at Mount Holyoke. Miss Frazer's father, Silas Frazer, is a well known Rhinebeck and Poughkeepsie lawyer.

Newspapermen's 'Mother' Retires to Wallkill Home

By NANCY SULLIVAN

WALLKILL

Speaking of the love generation — have you heard about Mrs. Edna Brennan?

Maybe you haven't. But countless numbers of newspapermen from the United States and Europe have — and the seeds of mutual love and affection have long been sown.

Mrs. Brennan arrived at the American Press Institute as a maid and after 19 years retired this June as "house mother" a title given to her "out of love" by the thousands of journalists who have met and worked with her.

Newspaper people are the greatest, she claims, and there are many that say the same thing about her.

It didn't take her long to get into the swing of things at API. She walked into the conference room where seminars are held for newspaper men and "took over." One of her first official acts? To wash the conference table removing oil that had been used on it and she claims from that day on, the table has always been waxed.

She also saved API some money. One day a man came into the writing room to clean the typewriters and she asked how much it cost to clean each typewriter. When she was told $5, doing some mental arithmatic, she realized it was "so much." So, from then on, she always kept the typewriters covered. She never told anyone to keep their typewriter covered but did it herself, and eventually, the newspaper men caught on.

Mrs. Brennan claims she would have worked for API without pay — she would gladly be a "dollar a year woman." said. She would leave happily in the morning and come home happily at night to her husband, Dennis (Dad).

"API taught me that planning is the key to a successful operation." Everything that was needed for a seminar was planned out. After all, this is the newspaper man's "home away from home for ten days." while he attends one of these seminars. "The members that come there are the API. You please the members because they are the API."

MRS. EDNA BRENNAN
. . . Happy Retirement

But her love of people is not confined to the press. She once saw a picture and story of a Marine in Look Magazine who was home on leave. After reading his story, Mrs. Brennan sent him a check and told him to "take his girl out on the town while he was on leave." Mrs. Brennan has sent many "gift boxes" and notes to various servicemen in Vietnam.

At a party in her honor at API, in June, Mrs. Brennan was treated to a surprise luncheon attended by administrators, deans, professors, secretaries, newsmen and friends. The festivities marked her retirement from API after 19 years and her 36 years at Columbia University. She was presented a silver coffee pot from Don E. Carter, executive editor of the Hackensack Record. Walter Everett, executive director of the API, presented a silver tray with the inscription "For Edna Brennan with the affection and gratitude of her API Family, June, 1970." Agnes Lister of the API staff presented Mrs. Brennan with an "extra" with a headline, "Mrs. Brennan retires at Columbia." Hundred dollar bills that were attached to a miniature rose tree were almost lost in the excitement and she and her husband were guests of the King's Crown Hotel on campus for the night.

At her home at Tillson Lake, Wallkill, Mrs. Brennan can reflect on the "warm, wonderful memories that will keep me warm all of my life — and warm in the winter." Her home is filled with souvenirs of the past years and the number of fan letters she had received would shame a celebrity.

Mrs. Brennan's retirement plans — well, "my husband is my number one hobby." She will also continue to send gift boxes to servicemen. While many people use their retirement as a time of rest and relaxation, Mrs. Brennan just "wants to go."

Mr. and Mrs. Brennan will be celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary in 1971. Mrs. Brennan has enojyed the years employed by Columbia University and API. She never had an education but API made her "aware" that she "was appreciated." They have all made her feel "ten feet tall" a fitting tribute to a woman who unsparingly and unselfishly gives love to everyone.

Tofany Huddles On New Views For Car Checks

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Vincent L. Tofany, state motor vehicles commissioner, called together service station representatives Tuesday to hear suggestions for new procedures in motor vehicle inspections.

The 400 representatives, more than was expected, approved almost unanimously a call from the floor for an increase from $3 to $5 in the inspection fee paid service stations.

Tofany made no comment and in Albany department spokesmen said they didn't know if the new fee might be in the offing.

The $3 fee applied for automobiles and trucks weighing up to five tons. Those over five tons and commercial trailers pay $5 for the compulsory inspection while tractors inspection is $7.

The appointment of Joseph L. McDonough, 51, as director of driver safety in the state was announced by Tofany as a news conference. McDonough, the director of the motor vehicle department's Syracuse division, will come to Albany in September.

Government Luxury Cars

The three major automobile makers all lease cars to key federal lawmakers at annual rentals far below rates available to private individuals. The chairmen of the House and Senate ethics committees are ready to look into the matter.

It is done for prestige purposes, the auto makers say. This might be taken at face value, except that the beneficiaries are chairmen and ranking members of legislative committees who might be influenced by the bargain vehicles they drive.

Ford leases insured luxury Lincoln Continental sedans to key lawmakers for $750 a year. General Motors supplies 33 of its top-line Cadillac limousines at $1,000 a year each for use of key officials in both the executive and legislative branches. Chrysler leases four cars to three chairmen and one subcommittee chairman at somewhat more money. Private individuals can lease similar luxury cars at $290 a month, about $4,480 a year.

These arrangements have been in effect for a dozen years. They follow the policy of placing cars in the hands of prestigious drivers, including sports and entertainment figures. However, there is a big difference. Legislators responsible for auto safety, highway, consumer and tax matters are in a position to return the favor. That stretches prestige and can fall into the quid pro quo category.

Off-the-Bench Activities

Though it is not required of them, six members of the Supreme Court voluntarily filed declarations of their incomes from off-the-bench activities. The Judicial Conference of the United States has requested an accounting of extra-judicial earnings from all federal judges, but the conference does not have jurisdiction over the Supreme Court. So the six who filed did it on their own.

They were led by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger. The others were Justices Harry A. Blackmun, William J. Brennan Jr., Thurgood Marshall and Potter Stewart. Justice William O. Douglas, who is the subject of an impeachment drive in the House of Representatives because of his extra-judicial conduct, filed his after the first drive. The remaining members of the high court are Hugo L. Black, John M. Harlan and Byron R. White.

The first five who filed reports said they had received no income this year for lecturing, teaching, writing, serving as trustee, executor or director, or for any other service. Justice Douglas said he earned $20,568.10 for outside writing and lecturing. The Chief Justice's pay of $62,500 and the justices' pay of $60,000 a year seems sufficient at least among the first five who made their declarations.

Your Share of Smog

So much is being said and done about pollution, that one would think we had just discovered it. As long ago as 300 B.C., a Chinese poet spoke of smog as "women's wind" that "shakes man with coughing and kills him before his time."

Smog itself is a word coined by a British doctor in 1905 from the words smoke and fog. One dense London smog in 1952 took the lives of at least 4,000 persons through respiratory ailments it was thought to have caused.

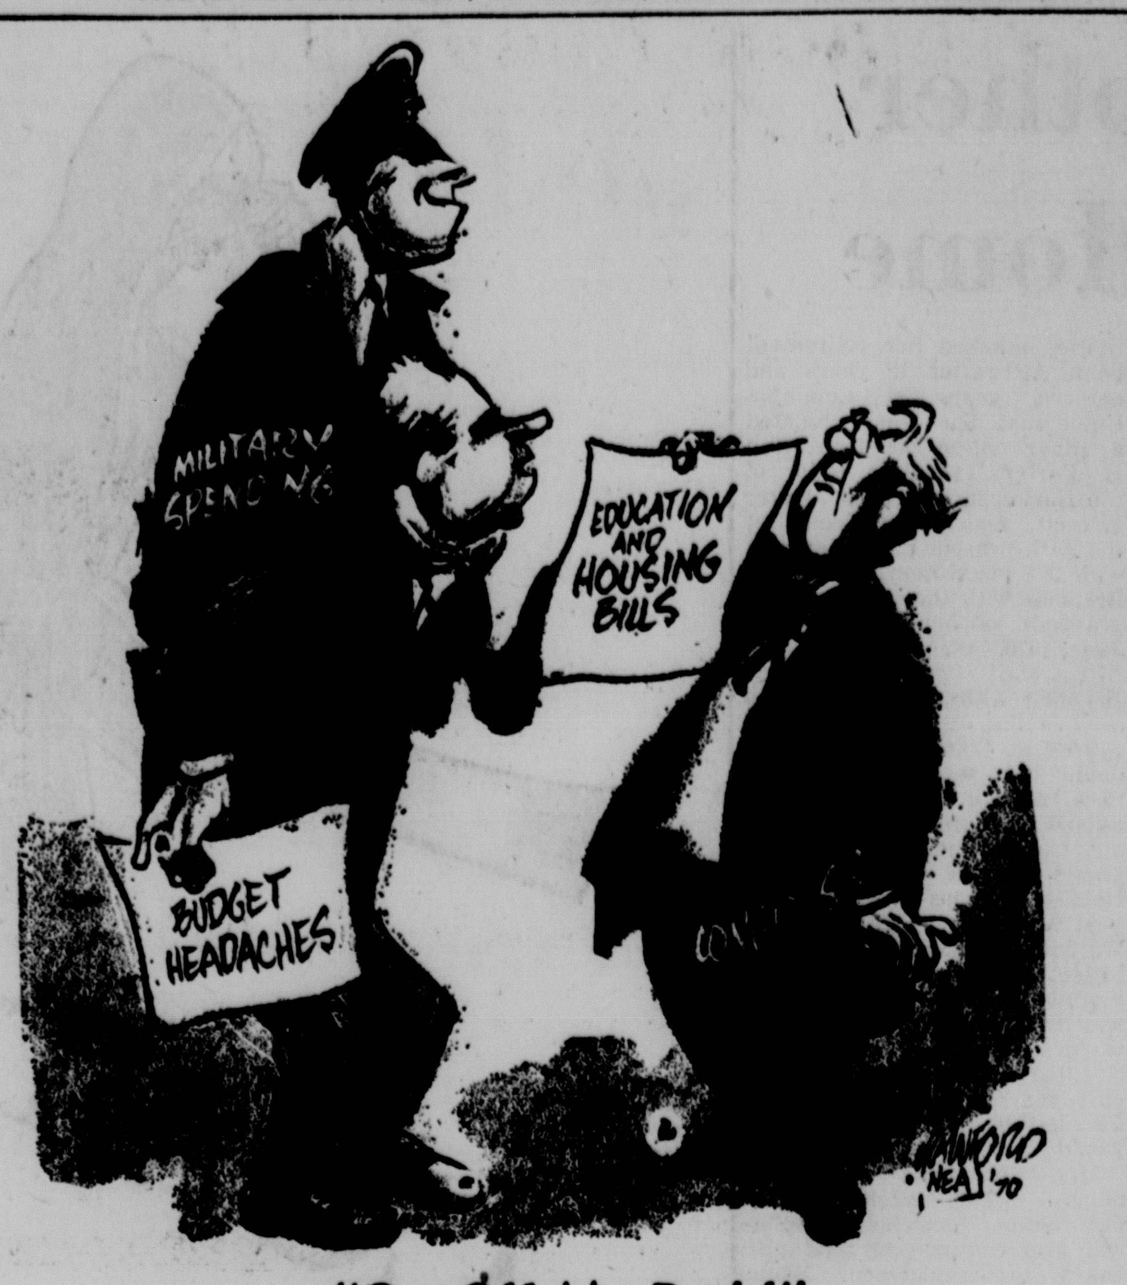
President Nixon warned that air pollution is our most serious environmental problem, and called for a federal research program to help invent a virtually pollution free automobile by 1980 as a matter of life and death. Auto makers and petroleum engineers are bending their efforts to eliminate fuel emissions that are responsiblle for half the polluted air.

The National Geographic Society, which is the authority for these historic notes, says that air pollution this year will reach nearly 142 million tons and will cost the taxpayer $13 million. Distributed among all Americans, that means each of us will absorb three-quarters of a ton of poisonous smog in the air he breathes this year—or 4 pounds a day—and, as a taxpayer, it will cost him about $62 for the privilege.

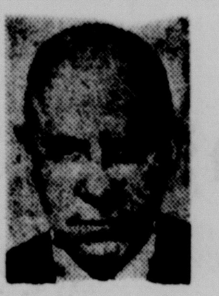
No doubt the automobile has multiplied and deepened the dangers of smog, but it is true that long before the horseless carriage smog was in the eyes and lungs of man. Only in recent years has it become so widespread, that scientists see it as a severe, even critical, threat to man's future on earth.

A Youth Conservation Corps open to boys and girls 15 to 18 years of age is authorized by a bill approved by Congress. It is designed to assist in the conservation and maintenance of public lands and offers youths an opportunity to expand their appreciation of America's magnificent natural heritage.

The new model cars are going to cost more. Letters to dealers indicate raises of about five per cent can be expected. Chrysler and Ford have advised their dealers. American Motors is discussing it and General Motors has not sent out its list. But the trend is up.



"Get Off My Back!"



David Lawrence Says

Judicial System Is Slow In Dealing With Criminals

WASHINGTON — Encouraging news about possible peace in the Mideast and better relations with the Soviet Union may be followed in the not-far-distant future by a truce in Vietnam. But the day-by-day news is far from cheerful inside the United States and may other countries where terrorists are defying authority and engaging in kidnapings and other acts in defiance of law.

There is the story, for instance, of the judge who was killed after having been forcibly removed from his courtroom by three convicts and accomplice. The news frequently narrated in the press about "guerrilla" warfare in courtrooms constitutes a strange chapter in our own hisory.

The same kind of epidemic has swept certain Latin-American countries, where some of the governments do not seem to be strong enough to meet the crisis they face. Even in Europe these tactics are to be observed, and the police authorities appear unable to deal firmly with such incidents.

The execution by terrorists in Uruguay of a kipnaped American because certain "political" prisoners were not released by the government at Montevideo is a parallel to what occurred not long ago when an American diplomat was kidnaped in Brizil. The latter episode did not involve loss of life, but the weakness of the government in Brasilia to deal with the case was emphasized. Now a neighboring regime is encountering a similar challenge. Other kidnapings in exchange for "political" prisoners have occurred and deaths have resulted.

If the governments of North and South America would join with the governments of Europe and Asia in denying asylum to any individual involved in a kidnaping or threat thereof or in making demands for a ransom, the chances of a repetition of the crimes would be diminished. Certainly the Organization of American States ought to be able to form an international agency, to be composed of competent military and intelligence personnel, who could cooperate in searching for kidnapers. The country affected could furnish data as the probable location of suspects. Would-be kidnapers, noting the extent of the punitive measures likely to be applied in the case of seizure of a citizen of any nation and the steps that would follow, might not try these torturous schemes.

In the United States, the "guerrilla" tactics are usually of a different kind. They consist primarily of inciting disorders on city streets, at public meetings and on college campuses. But there has been a rapid growth in crime involving private homes and on the streets of many cities, large and small. Population has been increasing so rapidly in the last two decades that even big cities have not been able to furnish the necessary personnel either to detect the criminals or to carry on effective methods of prosectuion. The crime problem is being recognized by Congress, where new legislation of a far-reaching scope is pending, but it will take some time before the full effects are felt.

When a Negro convict from a prison in California can have a shotgun given to him in a courtroom to point at a judge while other convicts demand freedom, one wonders whether the courtrooms are sufficiently denfended against potential attack. Unless criminals are discouraged from taking the chances they do today, more killings will occur and American community life will be less and less secure.

Criminals have been provided with all sorts of legal help to enable them to delay trials or to force mistrials, and the feeling has grown among the criminal classes that the opportunities to escape punishment now are better than ever. The whole judicial system is slow in dealing with criminals. Too many of them get moderate sentences. Also, the crusade against capital punishment has swept away fears of drastic penalties for murder and other serious crimes.

But more important than the form of punishment are the establishment of efficient systems for the detection of criminals, a quick impaneling of juries, and enough judges to hold prompt trials. If the time between a murder and the death penalty were cut down, there would be fewer criminals who would take risks with human life.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The intellectual scold of the United States Navy is seventy-year-old Vice-Admiral Hyman Rickover. He is a lean ascetic with white hair who, so far as I can recall, hasn't said a kind word about the Navy since 1946, when he became interested in nuclear propulsion. Conversely, I cannot recall the Navy brass ever admitting that there is a Hyman Rickover alive and well in the Bureau of Ships.

As a long-time Navy buff, it grieves me to note that, if the American public is now at the mercy of the Military Establishment, the Navy is the culprit because its officer corps constitute a secret society. Monumental mistakes are seldom revealed because the gentlemen with the scrambled eggs on their caps call this heresy.

The Navy couldn't hide the story of the Pueblo affair because the North Koreans made it public property. It held a public inquiry in California, but an inquiry is not a court martial. Commander Lloyd Bucher, a gallant man operating the tiny ship in hostile waters, armed only with two 50-calibre machine guns, surrendered a U.S. Navy vessel and was not brought to trial because everyone from the Chief of Naval Operations, Admiral Thomas Moorer, on down to the lieutenants in charge of Korean affairs, marked his assignment "minimal risk."

Ironically, Rickover has never belonged to the establishment. The hierarchy tried hard to retire him years ago because (1) he is Jewish, (2) he can outthink most of them without utilizing more than a few cells in his brain, (3) he's a rude critic.

When I wrote a story a few weeks ago about the heavy cruiser Indianapolis losing over 800 men, mostly because the Marianas command forgot to tell the Philippine command that she was en route, it was more than a tragic error and heads should have rolled. The Navy so shrouded the story that, even when I researched Samuel Eliot Morison's official history of the U.S. Navy, I could not find the name of the admiral at the Marianas who was responsible.

The Navy has its own Navy League, composed of substantial citizens and retired officers, who put out a publication which is forever yelling that Russia has a bigger navy than ours, and that we need more and more ships. Nor can Americans trust the Congressional committees who endorse this philosophy. Too often, they too "play the game."

Admiral "Dolly Stark" was chief of Naval Operations when we were attacked by the Japanese at Pearl Harbor. The U.S. had cracked the Japanese code and, when a sneak attack appeared to be imminent, the Navy learned that all the lines of communication to COMNAVPAC were busy, so the warning was sent by Western Union.

Stark wasn't court-martialed. The blame was saddled on Admiral Kimmel at Hawaii, and Major-General Short. It was Admiral "Bull" Halsey, I believe, who was warned of a typhoon at the end of the war and managed to steer his task force directly into the eye of the monster. The cruiser Pittsburgh lost 100 feet off its bow. No court martial.

It is time, and time overdue, that Congress opened the Navy files and made the officers responsible for their deeds and, more pertinent, their policy.

Rickover joins the group about once a year for a day. He testifies before a Congressional committee, or before the Atomic Energy Committee, and on March 19th before a closed session — keep the word "closed" in mind, said that:

"The Soviets are capable of starting tomorrow the biggest war there has even been and I am frankly not confident that the outcome of such a war would be in our favor." This statement is a non-thinker. If he is not positive of the outcome, then neither are the Russians or they would have started pressing buttons long ago.

The only reason the statement was released is to condition the American taxpayer to a heavier and heavier burden of building ships. United Press International stated that the Atomic Energy Committee, in benevolent benediction to Rickover, said: "The committee urgently recommended spending enough this year to build four new high-speed nuclear submarines and to plan for three more."

That's a pretty good day's work for an admiral. Usually, as has been said, admirals are prepared to fight the last war all over. In World War II, they wanted battleships when carriers were the proper instrument. Now that nuclear submarines are the sophisticated fish, they want more atomic-powered carriers.

Submarines used to be referred to as the Silent Service.

This isn't quite true. It's the whole Secret Society of U.S. Naval officers. . . .

Jack Anderson Says

Pentagon Spends Millions On Drugs of Doubtful Value

WASHINGTON—The Pentagon has shelled out at least $8 million in the last two years on unproved and possibly dangerous drugs which are being fed to unsuspecting GIs and their families at military bases here and overseas.

The brass hats apparently have fallen for the high-powered sales pitch of the big drug companies. The companies claim the overworked Food and Drug Administration is check enough on their claims of safety and effectiveness.

But this column has compared dozens of pills and elixirs listed in Pentagon contracts with the medical literature on them from such groups as the National Academy of Sciences-National Research Council.

Three contracts, for example, were written for Wyeth's Polymagma, an antibiotic mixture used to fight diarrhea and other ailments. But the NAS-NRC and other studies show in some cases it is ineffective and in others that another drug is preferable.

These reputable studies show that Polymagma contains an ingredient associated with hearing losses and with possible blood poisoning in children. The studies recommend the ingredient be "removed from current usage" until proven safe.

Yet, the Pentagon spent $877,825 to put Polymagma on its prescription list.

The Pentagon invested $2,352,961 in Robin's Dimetapp, an antihistamine widely used for colds. Although 40 million pills were purchased, the studies reveal their only proven effectiveness is for hay fever and similar allergies. Colds may not even respond to the pills.

The most costly of the dubious buys was $4,373,147 spent for a shotgun remedy called Ornade made by Smith, Kline and French. The studies recommended it only for nose inflammations and point out that one of its three ingredients may be valueless even for that.

Another drug, Robaxisal, has only one proven ingredient for pain-killing. That is aspirin. Yet Robaxisal is at least ten times more costly than aspirin and may have serious side effects. The taxpayers spent $86,661 to put it into the Pentagon's pill boxes.

The brass hats are in for an abrupt official accounting for their wasteful and dangerous buying habits: Sen. Gaylord Nelson's Small Business Subcommittee is probing the Defense Department's medicines. So far the Wisconsin Democrat declines to say what he has found.

Note: In their defense, the drug firms insist that their pharmaceuticals are marketed only after careful testing and after FDA approval. The Pentagon says its buying is based on the prevailing expert information at the time of the purchases.

Lawyers Act for Russian Jew

On July 20 this column reported that the life of Feigin Girsh Isakovich, a Soviet Jew and Red Army veteran, was in danger because he dared to turn in his medals in protest against anti-Semitism in Russia.

Although Isakovich is not himself in jail, his freedom was imperiled. His courageous story spurred four prominent American lawyers to take what action they can to protect him and other Jews from being shoved into Siberian prison camps.

Already there were 21 Russians, 18 of them Jews, who had been arrested in raids at Leningrad airport and at their homes. Eight were jailed shortly after they indicated they wanted to emigrate to Israel. All were charged with treason.

The sudden arrests had spurred fears of a wave of anti-Semitism in Russia, but most lawyers in the free world ignored the arrests.

The four attorneys decided to act in their private capacities after relatives of the arrested persons asked them to intervene.

They are Myer Feldman, former counsel to President John Kennedy, Joseph L. Rauh, a top civil rights attorney, Warren Woods, prominent labor lawyer and Clifford Alexander, former chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

In an August 6 cable to chief Soviet Prosecutor, R. A. Rudenko, the attorneys said that although foreign intervention of this sort is rare, "we believe the present circumstances justify it. . . .

"We are concerned over the reports of official retaliation against Jews who apply, as is their right under Soviet law, for permission to emigrate from the country to join their families."

The letter continued: "We hope that the reports of recent instances of incarceration of political dissenters in lunatic asylums are exaggerated and that this not involved in the charges against the 21 arrested persons."

A copy of the letter was delivered to Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin asking that he expedite consideration of the request.

Firearms Pressure

The National Rifle Association has waged a bitter battle in recent years against firearms control legislation, all the while claiming piously tha it is not a lobby for the nation's gun interests.

Despite these claims, the NRA has managed to find a variety of subtle ways to put the pressure on Congress to ease restriction on the sale of firearms.

Every member of Congress, for example, got a questionnaire the other day from Ashley Halsey, editor of the NRA magazine, American Rifleman. It asked each congressman to state his position on repeal of the 1968 gun control act, a law which the NRA and and the firearms industry opposed furiously.

The survey was for publication in the magazine, which the letter noted ominously, had "circulation slightly over one million."

Public Loses Interest In Dull, Slow Congress

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)— Sen. J. William Fulbright's newest observations about the relative access to the public by the President as compared with the Congress is just another of his frequent descents into almost unbelievable folly.

His complaint is intended to be general, but it obviously struck with particular force that President Nixon hit the television tube some 40 times while at San Clemente or making his way to and from that spot. To Fulbright, such maximum television exposure represents a "dangerous, unchecked power."

The idea has a surface plausibility and the ring of fairness. But realistically it is the purest nonsense. It requires no genius to guess that the audience such congressional programs would command likely would be minimal. The biggest noise would be the sounds of millions of sets clicking off.

It should be said, parenthetically, that the imbalance between presidential and congressional exposure is not quite as bad as Fulbright makes out. Every Sunday there are three major network panel shows, and top members of Congress make that tube scene very frequently. Moreover, they are interviewed quite often, sometimes in segments lasting 10 minutes or more, on the two competing network morning news shows which are watched by millions of breakfasting Americans. Fulbright takes only sarcastic, inaccurate note of these opportunities for lawmakers.

Admittedly, at such times, they are theoretically limited to answering questions but no resourceful politician in that circumstance can be blocked from making statements he wants to get across. In practice it happens all the time.

Fulbright is foolishly running against the tide of history.

The role of the presidency in fact and in the public's view altered when Franklin D. Roosevelt came to power in the Great Depression. There was no television then, but FDR commanded newspaper headlines to a high degree and became the first master of radio as a means of political communication.

Fulbright understands correctly that the ensuing constant public diet of war, Cold War, and other crises played a big part in enlarging the scope of the presidency. In fact, historians tell us emphatically that the first real breakthrough for added White House power came with the assumption of extra authority by Abraham Lincoln in the Civil War and Woodrow Wilson in World War I.

But every power equation has at least two sides. Presidents act presumptively in crises because time is vital and they can move fast. At its rare best, Congress seldom has moved with such dispatch, except to declare war when it was already raging (as after Pearl Harbor).

That is not the whole of it. Congress with each passing year has become a more and more antiquated institution, badly in need of major reform. It lacks facilities for acquiring and digesting vital information. It attends to its duties only intermittently. Experts say no more than 50 of the 435 House members are involved in really running the lower chamber, and perhaps 100 know what is going on.

It has been many years since Congress passed in time more than a few, if any, of the appropriations bills which by rule are supposed to be enacted before the start of each fiscal year, July 1. There is no excuse for such sloveliness.

Moreover, the lawmakers have steadily tended to become faceless men in recent decades. The old, dynamic types like Sam Rayburn, William Borah, George Norris are gone. Everett Dirksen, who died in 1969, may have been the last of the colorful buffalo.

The new types are younger, sometimes hard-working and highly efficient. But they do not have the zip.

While the lawmakers have been dawdling along, debating most issues longer than they should, surprisingly getting more television time than they deserve on the basis of performance, the public has been looking to the White House. And from FDR on, U.S. presidents have responded—acting, innovating, developing modern techniques for getting information and taking full advantage of the media. The media respond with high attention because that's where the action is and the people's interest lies.

BERRY'S WORLD

Peace, Quiet and Hard Work Reign on Small Farm

By TOM TIEDE

WAVERLY, Neb. — (NEA) — The world doesn't get much nevermind at the Carl Swanson place. There is the television, of course, and if somebody tunes it in there are pictures of soldiers dying, Negroes marching and students screaming in the street.

But in the evening here, when the work is done, the only thing the TV is for is Lawrence Welk. When he's not on, Carl Swanson usually sits outside his house with his wife and just listens to his crops grow.

Swanson's a farmer. Age 72.

He has lived on this same quarter of Salt Creek Valley all of his life, same as his father did, "workin' hard, mindin' my own, and livin' to a good old age."

You might call him a hick. Wash your mouth out. Carl Swanson has seen the city but chooses the country. "We've been pert'near ever'where in the country 'cept New York City," he says, his hands rammed into the stomach pockets of his overalls. "And lemme tell you one thin'. We're always glad to get back home."

Home is 211 acres of growing land, an hour's drive from the city, Lincoln, on the new Interstate 80. Swanson's father, a Swedish immigrant, bought it for $6 an acre in 1877. There's been wheat and hay and cows and chickens here since.

"We're growin' milo this year," Swanson says, nodding his head toward the field and explaining courteously, "you know what milo is, don't you? It's feed grain, like corn." He rubs his face. Blows his nose. "Good thin' we ain't got corn planted this year. Been dry all summer. Them with corn's in trouble."

He pauses.

And a pause in farm country is really a pause.

Then . . . then . . . at last he adds: "Yep. Been a real dry summer for corn."

Another Age

Slow-talking, easy-going Carl Swanson is a tossback to another age in America. Albeit a refreshing one. Once the nation's farm population was 30 million (1940). Then the world changed. War. Production. Urbanization. City life, with its all-night drug stores, double-feature movies and hourly factory pay, attracted two-thirds of the farmers. Today only Carl Swanson and 10 million others are left.

But the world may be completing a full turn. Towns-people fear the all-night stores now because night streets shelter thugs. The double features at the movies are rated X. Factory pay is reduced by strikes. So there is a slow return to the soil. Most of Swanson's neighbors are becoming ruralized city types who commute. "There's a retired colonel over there, he's got 15 acres. There's a doctor down the way, he's got about the same. They all like it out here." Why? "Easy, it's 'cause country life's the best there is."

From the look of him, Swanson is proof of his own testimony. Thin, crinkle-skinned, he is nonetheless hard as oak. Which comes from, he says, endless work. With only a grown son (Norm, 41, who lives just across the road) as help, the old man is up every morning at 5 to milk 28 cows. He toils the sun around. "We don't like daylight savin's time, 'cause it gives an extra hour light. And, hell, that means an extra hour work. We don't like stoppin' here 'til it's dark."

Necessity, Not Choice

For all his energy, Swanson works not as much by choice as necessity. Falling prices and rising costs have hurt the farm population at least as much as the lure of the city. "Making it," says Swanson, "just ain't never easy." The man's machinery alone has cost him nearly $50,000 over the years; the market prices of his crops have plummeted — winter wheat has dropped from $3.25 to $1.25 a bushel in 20 years; and the cost of hired help has almost tripled since World War II.

As a result, many small farmers have just folded. Between 1940 and 1964, farms earning under $5,000 a year declined by 60 per cent and farms earning from $5,000 to $10,000 a year have been cut exactly in half, from 880,000 to 440,000.

Those that survive, says Swanson, "have the help of God."

In all truth, the survivors have other help too. Co-ops, where farmers buy cheaply by bulk, are thriving now; so are joint ventures, where several farms share equipment. And, naturally, there is government subsidy, what city people call "giving farmers something to grow nothing," but what Swanson calls "very important if we don't want small farms wiped out altogether."

But enough of the problems and politics.

Farmer Swanson isn't complaining. Things are fine. Crops are green, his health is good and from the whiff of things the missus is almost ready with supper.

So relax. It's evening here in Salt River Valley. There's a breeze bending the milo stalks. And listen. Do you hear it? No, it's not the sound of shouting or shooting or a traffic jam. That's a moo. A nice, old-fashioned, wonderful moo.

FBI's Rating Has Declined

PRINCETON, N. J., Aug. 8—The FBI has declined in public esteem since 1965, particularly among younger adults, Easterners and persons with a college background.

During this five-year period the FBI has frequently come under fire from liberal groups as a bulwark of the "Establishment."

But despite the decline in public esteem, the FBI still commands the broad respect of the population as a whole, with seven persons in ten (71 per cent) giving this organization a "highly favorable" rating. The comparable rating in the 1965 survey was 84 per cent.

The FBI is more highly regarded than another governmental organization, the Pentagon, which is also generally associated with the "Establishment" and has been under heavy fire from anti-war groups.

Approximately three persons in ten (28 per cent) in the latest survey give the Pentagon a "highly favorable" rating. No earlier data where available.

The ratings in this report were obtained by a sensitive attitude scale called the Stapel Scalometer, which consists of ten squares or boxes. The person being tested was given a card showing the squares and told the top square represents the highest degree of liking, the lowest square, the lowest degree. He was then asked to indicate how far up or down the scale he would place the organization he was asked to rate.

Highly favorable attitudes are are considered to be the responses in the top two scale positions.

Following is the comparison of the "highly favorable" ratings for the FBI from the latest survey and the 1965 survey:

"Highly Favorable" Rating of FBI

	Dec., '65	Latest	Point Change
	%	%
NATIONAL	84	71	—13
21-29 years	85	62	—23
30-49 years	84	73	—11
50 & over	84	73	—11
East	88	63	—25
Midwest	83	74	—9
South	82	76	—6
West	85	69	—16
College background	78	57	—21
High school	88	75	—13
Grade school	82	75	—7

The scale ratings given the Pentagon, in contrast to those given the FBI, show little difference by age, region or educational background.

10 Inmates Returned, Biggest Rochester Break

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Ten prisoners were back in custody and 13 others were sought today after the largest mass escape in the 116-year history of the Monroe County Penitentiary.

The 23 men, all of whom were awaiting court action on a variety of charges fled from the ancient prison Tuesday after chipping a hole more than two feet wide in a two-foot-thick brick and stone wall.

Sheriff Albert W. Skinner estimated it took the men about 90 minutes to chisel away mortar with a spoon, a pipe and a two-by-four board.

The escapees, all of whom wore civilian clothing, made their break for freedom from an exercise hall at the rear of the penitentiary.

About 75 other inmates, together with three guards, were in the 130-foot-long room at the time, but all 75 professed ignorance of the escape plans or its execution, Skinner said.

"I guess they were scared," he surmised.

The guards were at the opposite end of the room when the men escaped, and the first word came when a woman telephoned the penitentiary and reported seeing a man running through a field.

A search force of more than 100 city, county and state law-enforcement officers was dispatched on foot, in motor vehicles and a helicopter and roadblocks were set up throughout the city.

Several dozen persons who could not immediately identify themselves conclusively were detained briefly for questioning.

The search was concentrated around Highland Park and Mount Hope Cemetery, which are near the penitentiary on Rochester's South Side.

The prisoners were recaptured at various locations. One was caught as he tried to wiggle his way through the hole in the wall.

The penitentiary houses about 270 prisoners, some of whom are serving terms of up to one year and others, such as the escapees, who are awaiting disposition of their cases.

A new penitentiary is currently under construction.

Jewish Writers Slaughtered

Editor, The Freeman,

Eighteen years ago, on August 12, 1952, the Soviet, knowing that a people without a culture cannot continue to exist as a people, slaughtered 24 leading Jewish writers and intellectuals as part of their campaign to extinguish Judaism from inside the USSR. This had an immediate effect and for years there was no Jewish culture or communal life.

However, a new generation of Soviet Jews has arisen from the ashes of Stalinism, committed to the idea of a Jewish people and the State of Israel.

Out of these thousands of committed young Jews, have come new writers who instead of writing Yiddish poetry, translate books such as exodus into Russian and write moving pleas for freedom to their leaders and the United Nations, risking their very lives.

On this anniversary of the murder of these 24 writers we must commit ourselves to work for the freedom of Russian Jews not to ignore them as we ignored their fathers.

Sincerely,
BRACHA KING

Fluoridation

Editor, The Freeman:

Should Americans be forced to use a toxic product which is also a poison, seems to be the question. Who is behind the unfortunate activities of the pro-fluoridationists and what is in it for them? Testimony before the government is incorporated in volume 9 of the un-American activities report for the year 1939. And I quote:

"I, Oliver Kenneth Goff, was a member of the Communist Party from May 2, 1936 to October 9, 1939. During this period of time I operated under the Number 18-B2. While a member of the Communist Party I attended Communist underground training schools outside the City of New York. In the Bises Hall and 113 Wells Street, Milwaukee, Wisc., we were trained in the art of poisoning water supplies. We discussed thoroughly the fluoridation of water supplies and how we were using it in Russia as a tranquilizer in the prison camps. The leaders of our school felt that if it could be induced into the American water supply it would bring about a spirit of lethargy in the nation where it would keep the general public docile during a steady encroachment of Communism.

We also discussed the fact that keeping a store of deadly fluoride near the water reservoir would be advantageous during the time of the revolution as it would give us opportunity to dump this poison into the water supply and either kill off the populace or threaten them with liquidation. It was felt by the leadership that if a program of fluoridating of the water could be carried out in the nation it would go a long way toward the advancement of the revolution."

End of quote.

Mass Transit May Be on Verge of Nationwide Comeback

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Mass transit, long ago jilted by the automobile-loving public, may be on the verge of a nationwide comeback.

On a downhill curve since World War II, the bus, the subway, and the commuter train now are being touted as the answer to such critical urban problems as smog and traffic james.

This revival of interest in mass transit comes none to soon. Since 1945, transit fares have tripled, but the number of passengers has dropped by one-third. Over 235 bus and subway firms have gone out of business.

Two things combined to give mass transit a second chance. One is growing government support for mass transit projects. The other is a spate of innovative ideas on how to move commuters with speed and comfort.

At the top of the idea list is the tracked air cushion vehicle. Propelled by an electric motor, this train-like vehicle rides over a guideway on a thin cushion of air and is capable of speeds up to 300 miles an hour.

Futuristic? Not all. France already has tested a working model. The Federal Railroad Administration begins its own tests next year at Pueblo, Colo. By late 1972, a 150-mile-an-hour version of the air cushion vehicle may be in operation between the Los Angeles International Airport and the San Fernando Valley.

Ever hear of a gravity train? The Transportation Department is investigating the prospect of using these so-called tube trains for mass transit and city-to-city travel. Operating as much as 1,500 feet underground, the trains would roll downhill to stations, and then use a momentum and vaccum pressure to climb uphill.

Then there is the "SkyBus" system being used for Pittsburgh commuters. Rolling on overhead tracks, the SkyBus cars tie downtown Pittsburgh to an outlying suburb. SkyBus is designed to be fully automated and controlled by a computer.

Other cities are using so-called "people-movers" to keep traffic moving from point to point in downtown areas and around massive airport terminals. The "Dashaveyor," for example, consists of small, electric-powered units capable of carrying six to 24 passengers over a track at speeds of 80 miles an hour. It is being considered for use at a new Dallas airport.

Stevedores Ready the Nerve Gas For Eventual Watery Tomb

SUNNY POINT, N.C. (AP) — Stevedores today begin loading 418 steel-jacketed vaults of nerve gas aboard an old Liberty ship which will become a tomb at the bottom of the sea for the deadly chemical.

Two heavily guarded trains rolled into this military port Tuesday night and early today after uneventful trips from Army arsenals at Anniston, Ala., and Richmond, Ky.

After the trains have been inspected, dock workers are to use 50-ton cranes to transfer the concrete-and-steel coffins to the Liberty ship, a relic of World War II brought out of mothballs for the assignment.

The loading is expected to take two or three days. Then the government plans to have Navy tugs tow the 442-foot vessel, the LeBrannon Russell Briggs, to a point in the Atlantic 282 miles east of Cape Kennedy, Fla. Valves and gas drains are to be opened to let in water so the Briggs will sink 16,000 feet to the bottom.

The scuttling is expected next Tuesday. But the tugs, accoopanied by a destroyer escort and Coast Guard cutter, will not leave port until they have a 96-hour prediction of good weather. The Army and Navy want to accomplish the job before September, usually the most active month for hurricanes in the Atlantic.

Each of the concrete coffins, capped by a quarter-inch layer of metal, contains 30 M55 nerve gas rockets, a total of 12,540.

The gas is called GB, or "Sarin," and is capable of killing a person in minutes after attacking part of the central nervous system. It is in liquid form but would quickly turn to gas if it escaped.

In addition to the GB gas, sealed in one of the Anniston coffins is a 10½-pound container of VX nerve gas, the substance that is believed to have killed 6,400 sheep when tested at a Utah proving ground in 1968.

Army chemical experts and the National Academy of Sciences say the gas, manufactured during the Korean War, must be disposed of quickly because the rockets are deteriorating. It is believed the gas is seeping into the rockets' propellant chambers, with possible danger of detonation.

The only disposal method that can be achieved quickly, the Army says, is to place the vaults aboard the ship and sink it. To destroy the supply with an underground nuclear blast, for example, would require 15 months' preparation.

There has been opposition from U.N. Secretary-General U Thant, a few congressmen, and Florida Gov. Claude Kirk, who filed suit Tuesday in U.S. District Court in Washington.

The suit, filed jointly with the Environmental Defense Fund, asked that the Army be required to prove that the dumping site is the best possible location and that the scuttling plan is the safest disposal method.

Lawyers for Kirk and the fund said they would appear in court today to ask for a temporary restraining order pending settlement of the suit.

The Army promises this will be the last shipment of nerve gas to be dumped at sea and that chemical means will be used in the future. In 1967 and 1968, more than 1,400 simisalr vaults of nerve gas were sunk in the Atlantic off the New Jersey coast with no apparent harmful effect..

The Army contends the ocean will render the gas harmless by dilution in salt water if pressure or corrosion cracks the vaults. It says the resulting poisoning of the sea would be highly localized and the gas would be harmless within hours.

Strict safety precautions were followed as the two trains made their way slowly, at no more than 35 miles an hour, over meandering routes that avoided large population centers. By highway, Anniston is about 540 miles from Sunny Point and Richmond about 645.

Each train was preceded by a pilot train that scouted the tracks and carried armed soldiers, decontamination units, fire trucks and ambulances. The only mishap along the way was a minor brake problem experienced by the Alabama train in Georgia.

Col. Robert B. Reid, commander of the Sunny Point terminal, ordered the same elaborate precautions here. Longshoremen involved in the transfer of the gas received 16 hours of instruction on special handling techniques.

All who come near the shipment, including a small group of newsmen who will follow it to sea, received special instructions and are to receive atropine syrettes, an antidote for the gas.

Extra military police were brought in from other Army bases to help maintain security.

The terminal's main job, loading ammunition and bombs for Vietnam, has been curtailed until the nerve gas shipment leaves.

Two Arrested, Drugs Found on Routine Check

PINE HILL

Two men were arrested Tuesday by State Police and a Town of Shandaken constable, after they were stopped on a motorcycle on Route 28 for a routine check and found in possession of marijuana.

Trooper J. C. Mikesh of Kingston and Constable James Short booked Stephen Charles Green, 21, of Endicott, and Frederick William Valle, 21, of Miami, Fla., on charges of criminal possession of dangerous drugs sixth degree.

Valle also was cited for criminal possession of an implement for administering narcotics — a pipe.

Arraigned before Shandaken Town Justice Edwin France, both men pleaded guilty. Green was fined $100 or 100 days in the county jail. In lieu of payment of the fine he was committed. Valle was fined $100 on the drugs count and $25 for possessing the pipe. He paid the fines and was released.

Trooper Mikesh and Constable Short also arrested Cecil Ovland Howell, 49, of St. Louis, Mo., on a charge of loitering following complaints from Shandaken residents. Howell pleaded guilty before Judge France and was sentenced to 15 days in the county jail.

Youth Cited, Several Charges

TOWN OF KINGSTON

Michael Van Kleeck, 18, of Clintondale, was cited Tuesday night by State Troper B. G. McNab for several vehicle and traffic law violations after he was stopped on Route 32 between Rosendale and Kingston.

Trooper McNab reported Van Kleeck was traveling at a high speed in a car that has flashing red lights.

The youth was cited for following too closely, have no signal lamps, speeding, unauthorized use of red lights on a motor vehicle, passing in a no passing zone. Van Kleeck is scheduled to reappear August 18 before Kingston Town Justice Richard Alberstadt.

$51,330 More Aid For Ulster Sewers

SYRACUSE

Senator Charles E. Goodell announced today a $51,330 federal grant increase for sewage treatment and related facilities has been made to the Town of Ulster.

Senator Goodell wired his congratulations to Town Supervisor Carmine Sabino and said he was pleased that approval from Federal Water Quality Administration will enable Ulster to proceed with its $1,800,000 pollution control program.

The Town of Ulster had previously received $513,330 in federal funds. The town's compliance with the Metropolitan Regional Comprehensive Plan resulted in today's 10 per cent increase in funds.

ALBANY, N. Y. (UPI) — James Flood, 20, of Albany, died at the Albany Medical Center Hospital early today of injuries suffered in a highway accident in suburban Colonie Friday.

Two Picked Up On Shoplifting

KINGSTON

Two girls were picked up Tuesday by security officers at Britts store in the Kingston Shopping Plaza, accused of shoplifting merchandise.

Security Officer Edward Coughlin turned the girls aged 14 and 15 over to the Juvenile Aid Bureau of the police department. Authorities said the girls were accused of taking a miniskirt valued at $8. The merchandise was recovered.

Spada, Robertson Named

Two on Benedictine Governing Board

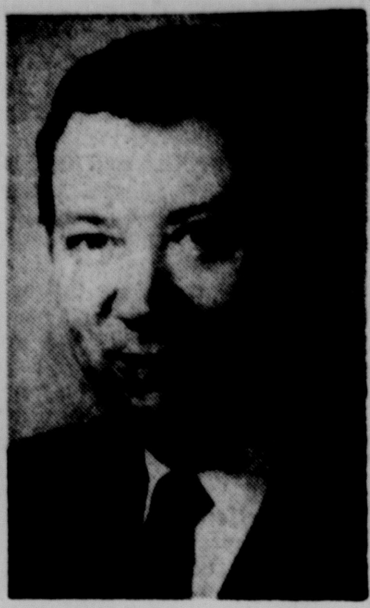
KINGSTON

Albert Spada and Joseph W. Robertson, both members of Benedictine Hospital's Advisory Board, have been named to the hospital's Governing Board, according to announcement made today by Sister Mary Charles, administrator.

Spada, who resides at 101 Florence Street, was born in Glasco and is a graduate of the District of Columbia High School in Washington, D.C. He served four years with the U.S. Air Force during the Korean conflict and was a member of the Air Force Reserve for six years.

Prior to his election as county clerk, a post to which he was reelected last November, Spada was deputy county clerk for four years serving under Lawrence D. Craft. Active in Republican circles for a number of years, he now serves as party county chairman.

ALBERT SPADA



JOSEPH W. ROBERTSON

Active in area civic projects, he served on drives for Benedictine Hospital's Building Fund and for the Community Chest. He was also among those who worked in preparation for the dedication of the new Spellman Building of the Benedictine Hospital.

Spada is a member of the Lions and the Elks Clubs, VFW, Twaalfskill Country Club and St. Mary's Parish.

Married to the former Mary Frances Keegan of Brooklyn, they reside with their two children, Albert and Charles Terence.

Robertson, who is senior vice president in charge of operations, Kingston Trust Company, is also serving as key banker in Installment Credit for Ulster County for the New York State Bankers Association. He has served as membership chairman of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce and is a member of the board of directors of Gateway Industries and Kingston Boys Club.

Born in Kingston and a 1946 graduate of Kingston High School, Robertson served two years with the U.S. Navy in the South Pacific. In 1951 he graduated with a BS degree in economics from Siena College, Loudonville.

His banking career began in 1955 with the Rondout National Bank where he was manager of the loan department. Later he joined Kingston Trust as officer in charge of the consumer loan deparment and subsequently was promoted through various officer's ranks to his present position.

Robertson's banking education continued and he now holds a graduate certificate from the New York Bankers Association School of Consumer Credit, he is a graduate of Stonier Graduate School of Banking at Rutgers University and he holds a graduate certificate from the Executive Management School of Columbia University. He has also been a student and instructer in the Ulster County Chapter American Institute of Banking.

A member of St. Mary's Church and its Holy Name Society, Robertson is married to the former Mary Netter and resides in the City of Kingston.

Associate Chairman Named For County Chest Fund Drive

KINGSTON

Stanley J. Petro, assistant cashier of the State of New York National Bank in Kingston has been named associate chairman of the 1970-71 Ulster County Community Chest Fund Drive according to Anthony Triulzi, general campaign chairman.

Petro will be responsible for assisting Triulzi in all capacities and appointment signals Petro as the next general chairman the chest.

In addition, the former city treasurer under Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan, will assume joint responsibility with Triulzi and Chest President Dean Robert Brown of UCCC, of directing the corporate fund contributions, and will singly be responsible for contributions from all levels of government, including the City of Kingston, Ulster County, state government and the federal level.

Captains will later be named to assist him in assuring that all employees of the various government agencies operating in the county are approached for a contribution to the chest.

Petro said that he expects to be kept extremely active in his multiple responsibilitites to the Chest Drive. He noted, however, that his involvement in government and in several civic and fraternal organizations has taught him that if time is budgeted properly, much more can be done than imagined.

Petro is a member of the Rotary Club, the American Red Cross, the Kingston Area Parents Association, Kingston Men's Democratic Club, City Democratic Committee, and United Commercial Travelers. A native of Kingston, he graduated from Kingston High School, and holds a degree from Siena College in Loudonville.

He is married to the former Beverly Castor of Hurley, and they are the parents of three children, Kathleen, 8; Peggy, 7; and Michael, 6

The Petro's live at 84 Lincoln Street.

A Navy veteran he expressed optimism when asked if he felt the chest would meet its $400,000 goal this year. Petro said, "I have four primary reasons for having a very strong feeling about serving the county-wide chest drive. They are my wife and children. Their importance to me is no less than the importance of wives, and children to all of us who are parents and husbands. And, my work in government exposed me to the vivid realization that there are many, many people in this county who haven't got the good health, or the pleasures I and my family have. But since I do enjoy some good fortune by the grace of God, I have a sincere desire to somehow enable everyone else to enjoy what he, or she, as a child, or an adult, in this great Ulster County is entitled to. They have a saying this year.

"If you don't do it, it won't get done . . ."

New Food Service by Montgomery Ward

CHICAGO

A new food service under the name of Royal Chef will be introduced in the Schenectady area by Montgomery Ward, according to Edward S. Donnell, the company's president and chief executive officer.

A buffeteria seating 160 persons will be opened in October at the Mohawk Mall on Balltown Road and State Street. It will be the company's second Royal Chef. The first will be opened in September in Grand Rapids, Mich., at the North Kent Mall.

Wards will open a new store at the Mohawk Mall on Aug. 26, but the Royal Chef will be opened later because it is not part of the new store.

In every shopping mall where there is a Royal Chef, there will be a separate food service operation in the Ward store.

"Our Royal Chef buffeterias will be places where families can get their fill of good food at moderate prices in pleasant surroundings," Donnell said.

Three classes of Royal Chef service are planned. The kiosk type will feature snacks with stand-up service. Snack bars will feature snacks with some seating. The largest units — full-line buffeterias such as the one to be opened in the Mohawk Mall — will serve hundreds of customers at a time in pleasant surroundings.

Royal Chef food service units will be located in enclosed shopping malls where Montgomery Ward has or will have a retail store. They will not be part of the store.

The buffeterias will have color-coordinated interiors, background music and special service.

Montgomery Ward's national chain of retail stores provides food service in 225 stores.

Licensed to Sell SBLI Policies

KINGSTON

The Rondout Savings Bank has announced that Roger B. Lindhurst recently passed the New York State Life Insurance Examination and now is licensed to sell Savings Bank Life Insurance.

ROGER B. LINDHURST

He attended public schools in Kingston and Salina, Kansas and is a graduate of Ulster County Community College having obtained an AAS degree in business administration. He served four years with the U.S. Navy in the Pacific area and currently resides in Kingston.

Lindhurst declares "the low premiums for Savings Bank Life Insurance are the first steps in low-cost protection for members of an entire family. Dividends earned beginning the first year further reduce the cost of your life insurance protection. All SBLI policies, except Term insurance and certain children's policies issued at age 0, have liberal cash values which begin the first year."

County Farmers Urged To Vote In ASC Elections

KINGSTON — Ulster County officials of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service are encouraging all eligible farmers to vote later this summer in ASC committee elections.

The ASC elections this year will be held Sept. 11. Ballots will be mailed to voters about Sept. 1. Farmer voters will elect three community committeemen and two alternates in each ASC community in the county.

The ASC committee chairman said that in addition to trying to be sure that every eligible voter will get a ballot, ASCS officials are urging farmers to nominate candidates for community committee posts by petition. Any sheet of paper listing one candidate and having signatures of at least six eligible voters will serve as a nominating petition, and voters may sign as many petitions as they want.

The nominations-by-petition period for ASC community elections opened July 28 and continues through Aug. 17.

Farmer-elected ASC committees—community and county — are responsible for local administration of farm programs. These responsibilities include setting individual farm acreage allotments and bases, approving applicaions for conservation cost-share funds, providing information to farm program participants and similar duties.

After the community committees are elected, the newly-elected members hold a convention to fill vacancies on the County ASC Committee. The county committee makes all local farm program decisions with the assistance of community committees.

A list of known eligible voters in the county is open for inspection at Ulster County ASCS Office. To be an eligibile voter, a person must be eligible to participate in any ASCS program adminisered in the community where he has his farm interest. Also an eligible voter must have a farm interest as an owner, tenant, or sharecropper and be of legal voting age. If he is not of legal voting age, he may vote in ASC elections if he supervises and conducts the farming operations on an entire farm.

Full details on voter eligibility, nomination by petition, community boundaries, and election procedures are available from the Ulster County ASC Office, 54 John Street, Kingston.

125th Dutchess County Fair—Premiums Will Exceed $35,000 Figure

RHINEBECK — Premiums exceeding $35,000 await winners in the various department competitions at the 125th Dutchess County Fair, Aug. 25-30.

The record total reflects the increasing stature of the exposition, according to S. Richard Lloyd, secretary-manager.

"Competition is a key word at the Dutchess Fair," he pointed out.

In addition to the prize money, an array of trophies and ribbons will be presented, along with special awards by agricultural and other groups.

Livestock department entries will share $11,000 of the premium money, expressing the continuing emphasis on agriculture by the Board of Directors of the Dutchess County Agricultural Society, along with its expanded fun and entertainment features.

The Dutchess Fair's dairy and beef cattle and sheep shows have been acclaimed as outstanding by nationally prominent judges.

Competition is intense also in such attractions as the horse shows and the horticulture, arts and crafts, Grange, poultry, fruits, vegetables and field crops shows.

Awards also await participants in daily Search for Talent contests and the fire companies and their musical escorts in the fifth annual Dutchess Fair's firemen's parade.

Part of the 1970 increased total premiums is due to a double harness racing card on opening day. Pacers and trotters will compete in races at noon and a different set of them at 5 p.m.

Driver Arrested After Accident

CATSKILL

Investigation by state police of Troop T of a minor traffic accident that occurred at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday on the State Thruway north of the Catskill interchange, resulted in the arrest of the driver on a charge of illegal possession of a firearm.

Trooper J. B. Fox of the Kingston detail took William H. Royals, 34, of 2149 Cortelyou Avenue, Brooklyn, in custody. The man was charged with having a loaded .22 caliber revolver in his possession.

Royals was arraigned before a town justice and committed to the Greene County jail pending grand jury action, troopers said.

$89,500 Bid Accepted For Paltz Construction

NEW PALTZ

The State University Construction Fund has accepted a low bid of $89,500 from the Helmer-Cronin Construction Company, Inc. of Soney Point for interior work required for construction of a Graphics Laboratory in the Communications and Lecture Hall Building at the State University College at New Paltz, according to recent announcement.

Original cost estimates for the project totaled $70,000. The project, scheduled for completion, in December, 1970, consists of partitioning and finishing off basement space in the communications hall to provide facilities for graphics and photographics laboratries and media services.

Work is scheduled to begin later this month.

Waste of Taxpayer Money Cited by Lenefsky in Speech

GLENHAM

David Lenefsky, Democratic candidate for the State Senate, said yesterday that he has studied in detail the State's financial operations, and that throughout the campaign "intends to expose specific instances of how Albany shamefully wastes money."

Speaking to a joint meeting of three Democratic Clubs in Southern Dutchess, Lenefsky said "I want to demonstrate to all Dutchess and Ulster citizens that there is a candidate for the State Senate who has acquired a competence in the state's finances, and believes it essential to share this important information with the public."

Lenefsky said "New York State taxpayers, for example, could save a substantial amount of money if the state would turn over the management of private industry. The $1 billion completing the Albany Mall to Albany Mall is not only negligently extravagant, but, in addition, the state is doing an incredibly inefficient management job."

"Construction costs per square foot for those parts of the Albany Mall being built by the state are more than double those being built by private industry in the Mall. It is costing the taxpayers $79.66 per square foot to build the Mall," Lenefsky declared, "in contrast to the privately owned part of the Mall being built for $32.09 per square foot."

Lenefsky said that the "building costs per employe also demonstrate the state's inefficiency. The cost per employe to build the State Office Tower is an astounding $19,867, while the cost per employe to build the privately owned Office Tower is $6,667.

"Citizens of Dutchess and Ulster Counties should know," Lenefsky concluded, "that our present State Senator has a record of voting for deficiency budget bills for building the Mall."

Brooklyn Man Dies Outside Medical Building

ELLENVILLE

A 64-year-old Brooklyn man died suddenly while in a station wagon stopped outside the Medical Center here on Tuesday.

Police identified the man as Morris Shapiro of 24 Bills Street, Brooklyn. The body was ordered removed to the county morgue at Kingston Hospital by Coroner William S. Keyser for an examination.

Authorities said the vehicle in which Shapiro died was owned by Homowack Lodge, Spring Glen, and operated by Steven Migdal of 9 Beckley Street, this village.

With Shapiro at the time of his sudden death were his wife, Dora, Herbert Goldberg, and Jack and Estelle Wallach of Yonkers. The investigation was conducted by Lt. George Sheeley and Patrolmen Norman Green and Fred Adell.

Authorities said Shapiro apparently had been taken to the medical center for treatment, but he died before he arrived there. A verdict is pending, police said, although it was indicated death was due to natural causes.

Check Forgeries Charged to Man

WOODSTOCK

Jeffrey Paul Owin, 19, of 26 Appletree Drive, Saugerties, was in the Ulster County Jail today in lieu of $2,000 bail facing charges of second degree forgery felonies.

Owin was arrested Tuesday by BCI Investigator Carl VanWagenen following investigation of complaints that the defendant had forged and passed checks that were allegedly stolen. The checks were passed at area supermarkets and other business places, authorities said.

Arraigned before Town Justice Rudolf Baugarten, Owin was committed in lieu of bail pending a hearing on Friday.

2 Juveniles Stopped in Stolen Car

SHANDAKEN

While on patrol along Route 28 in this township at about 8 p. m. Tuesday, Trooper Roy Martinussen spotted a car that had been reported stolen earlier from the Alamo Service Station at Phoenicia.

Martinussen stopped the vehicle and took into custody two juveniles. They were released in custody of their parents pending an appearance in Ulster County Family Court on grand larceny counts.

Outcome Too Close to Call

Crucial Safeguard Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the outcome too close to call, the Senate faces a crucial vote on restricting the Safeguard antiballistic missile system, amid warnings a vote against the ABM will be counted a vote against President Nixon.

Supporters of Safeguard claimed victory Tuesday morning, but by nightfall the situation was so cloudy no one was sure even which of two amendments would be used to attack the ABM system.

The vote was scheduled at 3:30 p.m. today.

The vote assured a new Senate-White House confrontation a day after Nixon vetoed two domestic spending bills because they exceeded his budget by more than $1 billion.

Most senators opposed to Safeguard have contended the billions it may cost—$50 billion by the estimate of one critic—could better be used to ease homefront crises.

The pending $19.2 billion military procurement bill contains $1.4 billion for Safeguard during the next fiscal year.

Announcements by three Democrats only added to the confusion about the outcome of the ABM vote.

Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., and Sen. Clinton Anderson, D-N.M., announced they will vote for an amendment which prohibits extension of the ABM to two more sites requested by Nixon. The amendment is sponsored by Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Philip A. Hart, D-Mich.

Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., said he will vote against Cooper-Hart but for another amendments to bar expansion of the two new sites and spend $322 million to beef up the ABM at the two original sites at Malmstrom and Grand Forks Air Force bases.

The original Safeguard program was approved by a one-vote margin last year.

The second amendment is sponsored by Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass. Some ABM opponents sought to schedule a vote on that proposal immediately after the Cooper-Hart vote. But administration forces in the Senate blocked that procedure.

"I think the administration can live with the Brooke amendment," Brooke told newsmen. "It retains the momentum of the Safeguard system while allowing the President the full dollar amount he asked and allowing it to be used as a bargaining chip" in strategic arms limitation talks with the Soviet Union.

Speaikng directly to wavering Republicans Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., said: "The administration cannot accept any amendment to this bill. A vote for any amendment is a vote against the Nixon administration. It feels this is the minimum it must have to defend the country. . . .

"We have already compromised on this measure and I know the administration feels it cannot compromise further," Tower said.

That compromise was the Armed Services Committee's decision to strike the beginnings of a Chinese-oriented, thin area defense of cities from the House-passed bill.

Girl 15, Dies In Fire at Rensselaer Home

RENSSELAER, N.Y. (AP) — An early-morning fire took the life of 15-year-old Suzan Martyn today after, police said, she refused to jump from a second-floor window of her home.

Her widowed mother, Rose Martyn, 49, another daughter, Loretta, 16, and Clifton Diegl, 7, a grandson of Mrs. Martyn, were injured but not considered in critical condition at Albany Medical Center Hospital.

The flames, of undetermined origin, wrecked the two-story, frame house.

Police said Loretta jumped from the window and told them Suzan had declined to do so. Police found the younger girl's body cuddled in a corner of a bedroom. Loretta suffered a fracture of the left heel.

U.S. Also Helps With That Tab For Passage on Luxury Cruises

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is paying as much as $400 per passenger in federal aid to finance luxury cruises aboard ocean liners to such exotic ports as Hong Kong, Tahiti, Jamaica and Bora Bora.

Even a bubbly New Year's Eve party aboard a ship cruising off the California coast is covered by the rich flow of federal aid.

The payments are part of a special subsidy to American passenger ships that has cost taxpayers an estimated $240 million over the past five years.

The aid was begun for national defense reasons before World War II. But now, Government records show the only passenger liners benefitting from the payments are 10 cruise ships sailing the South Pacific and the Caribbean.

Congress, fed with plush campaign contributions from both seamen's unions and the shipping industry, moved this year to expand the aid to more cruises.

The subsidies go mainly to pay the difference in the higher wages for American seamen as compared to the low-paid crews on foreign ships.

The aid can run as high as half the total cost of a cruise ship's voyage.

Cruise ships don't even need to go to a foreign port to get the government support. The S.S. President Wilson plans a three-day New Year's Eve "party cruise" off San Francisco this year, and a company official says it will qualify for aid. The ship sailed to Mexico last New Year's Eve.

Shipping officials say that without this federal aid to pay their higher wage costs, they would be priced out of business and the privately owned American fleet would be certain to vanish from the seas.

The aid law makes keeping American ships sailing on overseas shipping routes a goal along with the national defense reasons.

The defense purpose of the payments seems outdated, government officials agree, in an era when a single jumbo jet can carry twice as many troops across the Atlantic in the same week it would take all cruise ships out of New York to cross the ocean.

"I don't know if it's necessary for national defense," concedes a Maritime Administration official. "But it keeps our flag at sea."

The government aid goes to both cargo vessels and the passenger ships. Because they have much larger crews, the passenger liners require much more aid per ship.

About $160 million a year is spent in federal aid for around 250 cargo ships sailing for American firms. Although far outnumbered by cargo ships, passenger liners' aid has amounted to nearly one-third the cargo cost.

The six passenger vessels sailing to the Caribbean and South America for Prudential-Grace Lines out of New York got $11 million in aid last year.

About $7 million went to the President Cleveland and the President Wilson on the Pacific routes out of San Francisco, and $6 million was paid to another set of sister ships, the Monterey and Mariposa, which also sail the South Seas.

The aid for these 10 cruise ships may be up this year, but the total spent for passenger liners should be down from the $50 million annual rate to perhaps $30 million because the number of ships has been shrinking. Seven have stopped sailing since 1968.

Congress passed virtually unnoticed this spring the law to ease the aid eligibility for the cruise ships. One section permits them to carry one-way passengers between American ports now without losing aid for doing so.

Ship owners are also giving an airing to a new idea to try to write into the law next year a flat guarantee of enough federal aid to insure that all cruise ships will break even—at the very least.

A source close to the House Merchant Marine Committee confirmed congressmen already have been talking informally about such a guarantee.

Key members of the House panel have been among the candidates getting big donations from committees for Seafarers International Union, which gave $500,000 to congressional and national campaigns in 1968.

WHITA Board Opposed To Adoption of Charter

KINGSTON — The Board of Directors of the We've Had It Taxpayers Association have expressed unanimous opposition to the adoption of the proposed Ulster County Charter, the board announced recently.

WHITA's opposition to the proposed charter, officials said, is based on "administrative overlapping and inconsistencies, undue concentration of power in the County Executive and apparent unwarranted significant cost of operation."

A detailed financial analysis of the alleged excessive costs is currently being drawn up by the Charter Committee of the WHITA Board of Directors and will be released later, it was revealed.

The Board of Directors concluded its statement by urging all Ulster County taxpayers to urge their county legislators to schedule public hearings to "determine the will of the electorate."

Saugerties Troop 36 Gets Camp Awards

SAUGERTIES

Thirty-three scouts of Troop 36, Saugerties spent a recent week of camping at Camp Apache in Saxton.

Under the direction of Scoutmaster George Karanza, the staff was comprised of Senior Scouts from the troop. Rifle range director was Marc Limeri; archery, Ron Deak; scout craft and nature, Keith Van Benschoten and hand craft and trading post, Bill Karanza. Cooks were Henry Eberhardt and James Backus. Joseph Romanowicz is assistant scoutmaster of the troop which is sponsored by St. Mary of the Snow Church, Saugerties.

At the Awards Camp Fire Saturday evening Scoutmaster Karanza welcomed the parents and congratulated the scouts on the awards that they had attained and praised the work done by the scouts who served as staff. He said that the advancement gained during the week of camp has been the highest in the past five years of other summer camps.

The advancement for the week was as follows: one scout completed his Life Scout requirements, three Scouts completed their First Class requirements and three scouts completed their Second Class requirements. There was a total of 29 merit badges earned, five for cooking, eleven for camping, eleven for wood carving, one for archery and one for soil and water conservation.

Fifteen scouts earned their Paul Bunyan awards which basically consisted of knowing the safety rules for axe handling, sharpening a dull axe and then felling a tree in a selected direction, removing the branches and placing them into a pile and finally chopping the log into three foot lengths.

On the rifle range the awards numbered 21. The awards are the official National Rifle Association awards. There was six, Pro Marksman; eight, Marksman; one Marksman 1st; four Sharpshooter; and two Sharpshooter.

The Honor Patrol for the week was the "Comanchies."

Says Old Songs Reflect Emotions

KANSAS CITY (AP) — "Man hasn't changed much. I think these songs show that."

Lomar Cansler stands with one foot on the seat of a chair. A guitar rests on his knee. He strums it unconsciously as he relates the story of his next folk song.

"Some of the songs I have collected date back possibly two or three hundred years; others may not be much over 50 years old."

Cansler is a native of the folklore-rich Ozarks of Missouri. "I don't know when I first heard the term 'folk song,'" he said. "We never called them that."

Today the 46-year-old guidance counselor at North Kansas City High School is listed among the "who's who" of folksingers in America He performed at the Smithsonian Institution's second American Folklife Festival in 1968 and has been featured in many other regional and national festivals.

He explained that he became interested in folk music while working on his masters degree at the University of Missouri. "One day I was back in the stacks at the library and I came across books by Henry Beldon and Carl Sandburg. I glanced through them hurriedly and I realized, 'My goodness, they're talking about stuff I grew up with.'"

Cansler's wife, Laura, then told how the discovery affected him:

"He went home the next weekend an started talking to his folks about the music. But he didn't start in earnest until 1953, when he got a tape recorder and began collecting from his Granddad Broyles and other members of his family."

After the tape recorder arrived, the Canslers began making regular trips into the field during their summer vacation. "Most of the people have been unbelievable in their cooperation," says Cansler. He'd explain to the people that he wanted to hear the songs they'd learned by word of mouth from their parents and friends.

"Probably not over 25 per cent of them played an instrument. They sang them acappella," Cansler explains. "And that's another aspect of our heritage that we don't think about too often. They used to sing these songs while they were working in the field, doing chores or housework. There was no accompaniment."

Cansler, who began teaching in 1950 in Fayette, Mo., decided to introduce some folk songs into an American History class one day.

"I was singing 'When I went for to Take My Leave' and noticed tears slipping down the side of the face of a girl. It struck me that this girl had caught the impact of the feelings expressed by this Civil War soldier in the song."

His experience in the classroom encouraged him to write an article for the Missouri Council for the Social Studies in 1955 in which he urged teachers to "use folk songs and ballads as a springboard into the materials, as a supplement to history, to make the textbook come alive."

Since then he has had articles published in various folklore publications, and recorded an album in 1959 for Folkways Records on the folk songs of Missouri.

As folklore evidence that "man hasn't changed much," Cansler cites two of his favorite songs. One, "The Housekeepers Complaint," comes from a 100-year-old woman who learned it as a young girl in Ringgold County, Iowa.

Tillson Troop Tops At Tri-Mount Week

EAST JEWETT

A troop of Scouts from Long Island joined the number of Ulster and Greene County Troops which comprised a recent week of camping in Camp Tri-Mount's 1970 season. Troop 309 of Dix Hills, Suffolk County Council, joined Troop 17 of Tillson, Troop 26 of Port Ewen, Troop 38 of Saugerties, Troop 76 of Wallkill and Troop 103 of Hurley to form a group of approximately 160 boys for a week of Scouting in East Jewett.

After a hard fought contest, Troop 17 of Tillson won the weekly Aqua-maneuvers at the waterfront. Troop 17 also became the first troop in Camp Tri-Mount history to defeat a staff team as they were victorious in a close archery match.

Honor patrol competition was again keen as patrols throughout the camp battled for the distinction of being the top patrol in camp for the week. Proving once again that the patrol method does work, the Wolf Patrol, made up of Scouts who came without Unit Leadership from various Troops in the Council, emerged the winner. Members of the Wolf Patrol were: Ameous Lucas of Troop 9, Patrol Leader; Eugene Loughlin and David Coissous, Troop 9; Bruce Kirkpatrick, Scott Porter, Neal Redmond, Richard Wiltsie of Troop 10; Bruce Johnson of Troop 11; Randy Hood, of Troop 42, Greenville; and Steve Burhardt, of Troop 163, Shokan.

The third week of camping included some 125 Scouts from Troop 16, Stone Ridge; 39, Flatbush; 44 and 141, Catskill; 45, Coxsackie; 76, Wallkill; 77, New Paltz; and 166, West Hurley.

Camp Tri-Mount is owned and operated by the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, a member agency of the Ulster County Community Chest, Inc.

Sawkill Scout Awards

Boy Scouts of Troop 8, Sawkill, held a campout and court of honor recently at Camp Skyrise in Phoenicia. The scouts took part in swimming and softball on Saturday, and were joined by their families for the ceremonies on Sunday.

Scoutmaster Frank McMahon welcomed the guests and commented on the recent activities of the troop. In April, the scouts conducted a town cleanup and removed three truck loads of litter from along the highways in the Sawkill area. The outdoor activity for May was the improvement of the historic site on Jockey Hill where the grounds were cleared and a log rail fence erected. The troop attended the council camporee in June and was awarded a red ribbon during the campsite inspection.

The following advancements in rank were presented:

Tenderfoot to Paul Buser, Star to Dennis Dye, and Life to William McGinnis. Merit badges awarded were: Pioneering to Bret Naccarato and Robert Ferrigan; Cooking to Dennis Dye, John Oberlander, George Aitken and John Aitken; Conservation to Kevin McColgan, William McGinnis, John Dolan, Bret Naccarato, G. Aitken, J. Aitken.

Service stars presented were three years to Kevin McColgan and Rick Stanfield; two years to George and John Aitken; one year to David Dye, Paul Dolan, and Steven Legano. Presented with the Paul Bunyan Award were John Dolan, John Aitken, Bret Naccarato and Kevin McColgan.

Family picnics were held following the ceremonies.

Campus Activism to Be Increased

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The president of the National Student Association predicted Tuesday the coming academic year will see an increase in campus activism, "much tougher and much more locally centered."

Charles Palmer said in an interview he couldn't anticipate the specific patterns of increased student protest. But he said he was sure much effort would be directed against the Vietnam war, racism, pollution and corporations which manufacture war goods or contribute to contamination of the environment.

U.S. military involvement in Cambodia this year made college people "a little harder, a little tougher, a little more cynical about the responsiveness of the political system, a little more cynical about how the political protester is dealt with in this country," said Palmer, of East Los Angeles, Calif.

"Next year will see a redoubling of activism," said the 23-year-old graduate of the University of California at Berkley. The NSA is holding its annual congress here.

The NSA says it has chapters on 500 college and university campuses and claims to be the nation's largest student organization. Its membership is counted by chapter, rather than by student.

"The exact thrusts depend upon what happens externally," Palmer said. "Lest we become reactionary, we'll have to respond to what the President and other people are doing."

But he said there is bound to be activity against government, and it may include some directed at state governments, at mayors and at campus administrations. It will all depend upon what issues arise, Palmer said.

Without recommending any cooling of campus activism, Palmer said the time has come for students to go to their home communities and elsewhere to spread word of what they've been doing. The generation gap is widening, he said, and communication is important.

"I think one of the real crises facing students the next couple years is how to build and broaden their base, how to get out to other people, how to understand what other people are doing and how to make understood what student interests are."

Palmer said students have tremendous problems understanding and being sensitive to the problems of most working people.

"Most students have been away from home for a while," he said. "They don't know about the insecurity of being laid off, or the insecurity of a big doctor bill. They don't really sense, nearly as directly as their parents, the effects of the present recession. . . ."

A rapid talker, Palmer wore blue jeans, a green shift and—unlike many NSA delegates—shoes. His full mustache droops. His black hair is a bit scraggly, but not very long by the standards of today's youth. His smiles are faint, his scowls are deep.

The generation gap is increasing, he said, in the sense that "awareness" spreads much faster among students than in other parts of society. He said students are much less fatalistic about what can be done or can't be done.

"More and more college people are thinking in terms of 'let's do it' instead of 'don't tell me it can't be done.' They want to change things around," he said. "People don't want to become pawns for someone else's ego."

How about charges that campus unrest is Communist supported?

Palmer said his group, the NSA, "has no backing from anybody except for a couple of grants from foundations."

He said that talk of Communist support is rather irrelevant anyway.

"It shouldn't be a question of who we're backed by as long as we're responsive to the students," he said. "The students of the colleges and universities set our policies."

Palmer also had these observations:

Drugs—They have become a factor on campus. "A whole new culture has developed around drugs. The laws are terrible, and enforcement of the laws is terrible."

Indochina: "The whole situation . . . is approaching the point where there is no middle ground. We've got to get out! We're not really welcome there."

BARTHEL BOOSTERS — Two Democratic Saugerties County Legislators are among those supporting the candidacy of George Barthel for State Assembly. (L) Richard Thornton, Barthel and Paul M. Brazier. Barthel, of Ellenville, is also a county legislator representing District 11 which takes in the Town of Wawarsing. A number of Democratic city and Esopus legislators have also come out in support of Barthel who will oppose incumbent Assemblyman H. Clark Bell in the November election. (Freeman photo by Haines).

CONTROL ON COMMAND

Maybe man can control his body to an undreamed-of degree.

Recent experiments have produced extraordinary results. At Rockefeller University in New York, for example, Dr. Neal Miller and his associates have trained rats to regulate a whole series of visceral functions not previously thought to be under voluntary control. To raise or lower the amount of blood flowing to their stomach walls. To boost or limit the amount of their gastric secretions. To increase or decrease the rate of urine formation. To raise or lower their blood pressuret.

Now at Baltimore City Hospital, humans have been trained to raise their blood pressure and drastically modify the rhythm of their heartbeat. Just how they do it is still something of a mystery, even to the researchers. Some patients claim they accomplish the changes by deep breathing. But Dr. Miller is not convinced of that explanation.

At any rate, Dr. Miller believes this may be just the beginning of some exciting developments. He thinks it might be possible to exercise willful control over a host of bodily functions and regulate them as a symphony conductor directs his orchestra, signaling softer tones from some sections and a faster tempo elsewhere.

Viseral learning may ultimately mean that man can use his mind to conquer many of the illnessess of his body, says Dr. Miller.

Thirty-six inmates are currently enrolled in the program, which was conceived by Angelo Syracuse, director of Education at the southern Ulster facility.

Cleanup Week Set by Post Office

KINGSTON

Postmaster Oscar. V. Newkirk today announced "Clean Up Week" Aug. 16-22 for the Kingston, Post Office as part of a nationwide postal activity announced in Washington by Postmaster General Winton M. Blount.

The Postmaster General announced the program Sunday "to establish post offices as a symbol of good housekeeping and as a credit to every community in the nation."

Locally, Postmaster Newkirk said "Clean-up Week" will focus on such matters as cleaning up the grounds, trimming shrubbery, and keeping the lobby and workroom floor clean at all times.

"We are all concerned nowadays about the quality of the environment," he said, "and the Post Office — as a representative of the Federal Government — is always pleased to conduct activities that are in the best interests of the communities we serve.

"Our Post Office is one of the busiest and most visible activities in Kingston and whatever we can do to improve it is of special value to our community."

The postmaster pointed out that, in addition to improved appearance for postal facilities, the national "Clean Up Week" is designed to provide practical values, removal of safety and health hazards designed to reduce accident and illness and repairs wherever feasible.

Newkirk noted that more than 40,000 post offices, stations and branches over the nation are joining the "Clean-Up Week" proclaimed by the postmaster general. This includes the Post Office Department Headquarters in Washington, as well as the 15 regional offices across the country.

The Postmaster General has said, Postmaster Newkirk noted, that while the most intensive effort will occur during the designated week, he expects post offices to maintain improvement programs as a permanent activity, "that will give a new look to the postal service for customers and employes alike."

Harassing Complaints From Rhinebeck Teens

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK

The Rhinebeck Village Board listened to a complaint Tuesday night by a group of teenaged boys that village police have been "harassing" them unduly on the streets.

John Zappe, a Rhinebeck member of the Dutchess County Youth Board, acted as spokesman for the grievances. He said that the youths are constantly asked to "move-on" when congregated on sidewalks in the business district, and that police threatened boys with arrest if immediate compliance was not forthcoming.

Zappe asked the board to either repeal its supportive statement of police, which was issued at the last regular meeting, or ask police to reduce their alleged harassment.

Mayor Peter F. Sipperley said that the statement was passed by the board to counter small invasions of "outsiders" who were supposedly bent on creating trouble, and not generally aimed at village youths.

And he said that he could not ask police to use more restraint in conducting their duties because "we would be tying their hands."

"The police should know how to handle this," he said, and Sipperley asked that if any village youths felt that they had a valid complaint against a police officer he should tell it to the mayor. State law provides for the post of mayor in the village to act as double duty as police chief. "But you want to be sure what you're talking about he warned.

Sipperley added that the joint village-town recreation department was doing more for teenagers than other comparable communities, and is planning to expand its programs.

Zappe said that the downtown sidewalks were "traditional hangouts" for village youth and they resented being told to move when they were not obstructing pedestrian traffic.

He also alleged that one illegal search, and quoted one which had threatened to cut a boy's hair if his orders were not complied with.

Sipperley said that there had never been trouble in the village and "we don't intend to have trouble." He told one of the boys to wear shoes if he chose to attend any future village board meetings.

A new street was added to the village map, with the acceptance of an extension to Chestnut Street, connecting with Crosmour Drive. The street was submitted by Eleanor Seymour of Seymour Estates.

In discussion concerning a proposed realignment of fire districts in the town, Sipperley expressed the opinion that a suggestion to combine all three districts into one should be voted on by the membership of each company to determine its acceptability.

Hillside has asked the Town Board for a portion of the coverage now covered by Rhinebeck and Rhinecliff. The Town Board will have to make the ultimate decision.

Sipperley said that he thought the independence of the three companies has contributed to their good quality, and he added that he didn't think money could be saved by consolidation.

Trustee Francis Kinney is investigating the possible use of state police radar units on village streets to stop wild and fast drivers, which village patrolmen are hard taxed to convict by usual methods.

He said that if state police cannot legally do this, then he will investigate the probability of leasing radar for the village. A radar setup would cost about $1,400.

Charles Vonderheide occupied the board's attention for 45 minutes with a renewed compliant about the poor drainage situation which washes away his lawn on South Parsonage Street.

"I'm through procrastinating on the village draining its streets on my property," he said. The board assured him that planning was being done to alleviate the poor situation.

Sipperley said that the village might possibly receive funds through the federal Housing and Urban Development program for capital improvements in the form of a recreation park.

And he asked that anyone in the village who was not covered in the 1970 national census to come to the village office and fill out a census form. State appropriations depend upon the accuracy of the census.

Paltz Students Face Split Sessions If . . .

By JON POWERS

NEW PALTZ

The unhappy prospect of split sessions and portable classrooms may face New Paltz elementary school students in 1971 and beyond unless a new school site is approved by voters this September, according to Fred Dippel, Chief Administrator of the New Paltz School District.

Two earlier bond referendums for construction of a new elementary school in New Paltz were turned down by voters this year. Dippel, however, is confident that a third referendum, tentatively slated for September, will be approved.

"I'm confident a resolution will be passed," said Dippel. "if we can convince the taxpayers of the critical situation facing us in the future."

The "critical situation" in district schools is one of the most noticetble growing pains being experienced by New Paltz. This September, according to school officials, classrooms will be filled to the brink in the elementary schools and, by Sept., 1971 and Sept., 1972, the situation will become unbearable.

Unbearable, that is, unless construction on a new school is begun this fall. Dippel stated that it takes approximately 18 months to construct a new school and that work must begin this year if they are to avoid educational catastrophe in future years.

To date, school officials do not have a definite site in mind. A Board of Education committee is currently examining possibilities, however, the their report is expected to be completed by the September meeting.

Once that report is submitted, a site referendum will be presented to the voters, followed by a bond referendum. Following Dippel's 18-month construction schedule, the new school will be ready for occupancy in October, 1972.

While this is all speculative, Dippel is sure of one thing: unless a new school site is approved as soon as possible, the educational standards at New Paltz will decline as the population increases.

According to Dippel, the three elementary schools in New Paltz (Middle School, Duzine and Gardiner) are operating at a peak capacity of 25 pupils per room and teacher. in September, 1971, that figure can be expected to rise above 30.

One drawback to overcrowded educational facilities is obvious; individual attention required by many students would no longer be available.

The alternative solutions are portable classrooms or split sessions. Both, according to the school district administrator, have drawbacks as well. Portable classrooms are expensive, said Dippel, to rent, and maintain and split sessions reduce the educational opportunities of the students. "You can't convince me," said Dippel, "that a student will receive as much education in four hours as he does in six hours."

Although an emergency now confronts the elementary schools in New Paltz, Dippel indicated that the high school may also become overcrowded in future years. He concluded that continued shuffling of students from one school to another will not solve the problem of overcrowded classrooms.

Penny Carnival Helps Hospital

RHINEBECK

Northern Dutchess Hospital was treated to what has become an annual affair recently when Michael Mazzarella, administrator, accepted a donation of $60 from eight Hyde Park young ladies.

The story began six years ago when this same group (less one): Lou Anne, Beth and Pam Sperry, Beverly and Susanne Hennessy, Gail and Cheryl Castles and Mary Bawol, decided to have a penny carnival and give all the money "to the children at Northern Dutchess Hospital." Their total donation that year was a little over five dollars.

Since then, as they have grown so has the reputation of their carnival. Today it is an event worth postponing family vacations for, as most of the girls' families have.

It is worth spending weeks of time preparing for, right down to personal invitations delivered door to door in their neighborhood, and it is worth saving your money for.

The girls assume total responsibility for every phase of the carnival, from taking tickets (admission was 3 cents) to selling raffles (one for 4 cents, two for 7 cents), to manning one of the booths (food, games and variety) and after all of that, they provided a floor show.

All of this effort netted the girls, and Northern Dutchess Hospital, a grand total of $60, nearly double that of last year. The money, as always in the past, will be used to benefit hospitalized children.

Mazzarella said that he was "delighted" to receive the girls' donation and offered a small donation to them in return; ice cream in the hospital cafeteria.

U.S. Less Generous for Viet Vets

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Uncle Sam is providing far less generously for Vietnam veterans than he did for men who served in World War II.

The most conspicuous difference is in educational benefits.

The original "GI Bill of Rights," enacted in 1944, made it possible for any World War II veteran, however poor, to obtain a college education.

A World War II veteran had the right to enroll in any accredited institution, from an expensive private college to a low-tuition state university. The government paid his full tuition, whatever it might be, plus any extra laboratory, library or instructional fees.

Received Living Allowance

In addition, he received a room-and-board allowance of $75 a month if single, $105 a month if married. That living allowance went a lot farther in the 1940s than it will go today. The cost of living has approximately doubled in the meantime, so in terms of today's buying power, the allowance amounted to roughly $150 a month for single men, $210 for married men.

Under the currently effective GI bill, a Vietnam veteran who wants to go back to school is eligible for an educational allowance of $175 a month, if single, or $205 if married.

But that's all he gets. Out of that allowance, he is expected to pay not only his living expenses, but also his tuition charges and incidental fees.

The maximum period in which the allowance can be paid is 36 months—or four school years of nine months each. Thus a single Vietnam veteran gets a total of $1,575 a year to finance his college education.

Won't Cover Tuition

That sum won't begin to cover tuition—not to mention costs—at a leading private university. At Ivy League schools, for example, tuition and fees amount to about $2,400 a year.

So, unless he has private means, a Vietnam veteran must restrict his choice of schools to public institutions where tuition is kept low by state subsidies.

Poorer youths, who may have been drafted in the first place because they couldn't afford to go to college, return from the war to find they still can't afford to go to college.

Perhaps the moral is that the gratitude of a nation to its veterans is directly proportional to the popularity of the war they're called upon to fight.

Notes Big SS Gains

KINGSTON

Social security benefits are now three times higher than welfare payments, it was announced recently by George J. Habernig, Kingston social security district manager.

Habernig's figures were for the entire country, based upon recently announced statistics by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Statistics revealed that almost 25.5 million men, women and children were receivng social security benefits at the beginning of 1970, representing a total cash outlay of more than $26 billion. About 11 million people were drawing about $6.9 billion from public assistance payments (welfare).

Habernig noted that in 1940, the first year in which social security benefits were payable, more than 40 times as much was paid out in welfare as in social security benefits, indicating a complete reversal in the trend over the past 30 years.

The number of persons, the figures revealed, receiving social security benefits increased from 222,500 in 1940 to the current 25.5 million standard.

The number of children getting social security survivors benefits increased from 18,000 in June, 1940 to 216 million at the beginning of 1970. In 1940, almost half of the children receiving welfare payments were orphans, although less than ten per cent are in that category today. The large majority, said Habernig, are not orphans but children in needy families.

Since 1950, the percentage of the older population getting old age assistance has been cut by more than half, dropping from 22 per cent to about 10 per cent in 1970.

"Social security," said Habernig, "has taken a form that has made it not just a program for low income people, but rather a universal retirement system, supplemented with disability and survivors protection."

Saugerties School System Under LWV Evaluation

SAUGERTIES

The local study item of the Saugerties League of Women Voters is "A Study and Evaluation of the Saugerties Central School System."

The purpose of the study is to further communication between citizens and school personnel and to strengthen public understanding of school objectives and needs. In order to achieve these goals, the League has undertaken a comprehensive study of the organization, operating, and financing, as well as the educational program of the local school system.

The school study committee of the League of Women Voters has divided the study into two parts: The School System and The School Program. Part I, The School System, has been divided into ten sections. They are: History, State-Local Relations, The School District, Local Board of Education, Administrative Staff, Teaching Staff, The Pupil, School Plant and Facilities, School Finance, and School and Community.

The first complete section of the study, Administrative Staff, was released to local newspapers in June. The second complete section, History, follows. Upon completion of the ten parts, the League of Women Voters will publish a pamphlet containing the entire first half of the study. This pamphlet will be available to local residents.

Moon Photos At Onteora

BOICEVILLE

Acting Superintendent Watson I. Goodrich, and High School Principal John E. Stefano of Onteora Central Schools have accepted from Miss B. Sturtevant Gardner of the Gardner Gallery, 210 Meads Mountain Road, Woodstock, an exhibit of 16 photographs taken by lunar astronauts Armstrong, Collins and Aldrin during their Apollo 11 mission. The prints have been displayed at the Gardner Gallery for the past two months.

Miss Gardner obtained this exhibit through the Women's Guild of the Museum of Arts and Science at Daytona Beach, Fla., and in cooperation with Dr. Viktor M. Panariti, a scientist and inventor for the Lunar Space Program.

The display schedule for the five schools in the Onteora District is being coordinated through Stefano's office.

Offer More Books for Sale

WOODSTOCK

A fresh collection of books will be on sale at the Woodstock Library Fair Book Center on Saturday, Aug. 29, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Since the recent fair, a great number of books have continued to be donated in hard-cover, regular paperbacks and quality paperbacks. Sets of books have also come in. Anyone who wishes to give books for the sale may bring them to the Library during Library hours.

This book sale will provide another chance for the many book buyers in Woodstock who didn't get all the books they wanted at the fair. A very interesting and special collection has been put together and bargains in all departments will be featured.

Health Clinic Is Scheduled

KINGSTON

A Child Health Conference conducted by the Ulster County Health Department will be held at the Tumor Clinic Building, 400 Broadway on Wednesday, August 19 from 9-10 a.m., it was announced recently.

Announcement was also made of an immunization clinic scheduled for Friday, August 21 from 10:30-11:15 a.m.

Drug Spectrum

NEW YORK (AP) — The over-30 generation uses a wide range of drugs, but gets little blame for it, a Berkeley professor recently told a drug abuse workshop at Columbia University Teachers College.

Dr. Joel Fort, former consultant on narcotics to the World Health Organization, said that alcohol, sleeping pills, pep pills and tranqulizers all belong to family of "mind-altering drugs." He added that children often learn from their parents that chemicals are necessary for "happiness, sexual pleasure and eternal youth."

Mrs. Harriet Kerr Appointed

NEW PALTZ

Mrs. Harriet Allen Kerr of New Paltz has been appointed to the Advisory Committee on the Recodification of the Mental Hydgine Law by Senator Dalwin J. Niles, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Mental and Physical Handicap, of the New York State Legislature.

The Joint Legislative Committee has been preparing a complete revision of the Mental Hygiene Law which has developed in a very haphazard and uncoordinated manner, to meet specific needs at a given time.

Mrs. Kerr who is legislation chairman for the New York State Association for Mental Health will represent that association on the advisory committee. During the past year she has presented testimony on behalf of the association at several hearings of this committee.

Mrs. Kerr has been assigned by J. Kenneth Campbell of Alexander & Green, chairman of the advisory committee, to serve on the Subcommittee on Organization and Operation of the Mental Hygiene Department, which includes the Community Mental Centers and Boards. Other sub-committees include Mental Retardation, Alcoholism, Admission procedures and Patients Rights, and Incompetents' Committee.

Mrs. Kerr has been active in Mental Health work for many years. She served as chairman of the Mental Health Committees of the North Brunswick, N.J. Board of Education, and of the local PTA, and of the Mental Health Committee of the Middlesex School Boards Association. Under their auspices, she carried out a study of the mental health services and needs of the Middlesex County schools in preparation for the Mid-Century White House Conference on Children and Youth, which she attended as official Delegate from Middlesex County.

Mrs. Kerr is a member and vice-president of the Board of Directors of the Ulster County Association for Mental Health.

LUAU PREPARATIONS — Organizers of the third annual Luau Nite, sponsored by the Jewish Community Center, have announced that final preparations are nearing completion. The event is scheduled for Saturday night, August 15 at the center's Hurley Mountain Family Site. Entertainment will be provided by Sid Poman and his orchestra and a dinner will be included. Members of the organizing committee are (Seated, L-R) Thelma Rosenberg, chairman and Dotty Feit and (Standing, L-R) Stanley Karoner, Eleanor Werbalowsky and Hy Rosenberg. The event is open to the public and will be held rain or shine. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Saugerties Woman

Official Pageant Chaperone

SAUGERTIES

An Ulster County Pageant member of the board and chaperone chairman was recently named by the Miss New York State Pageant board to serve as official chaperone for the state titleholder during appearances of Miss New York State from Albany to the New York City line.

Mrs. Buono, who is the official chaperone of Miss Ulster County, a position she has held for nine years, was named by the state board at a recent meeting held in Olean, home of the state pageant.

Since her first association with the local pageant in 1962, she has become indispensable and has headed the committee on chaperones for each pageant since that time.

Although she had not returned from state with a state titleholder, she has brought back to Ulster County three finalists and three most talented non-finalist winners and a Miss Congeniality title, won recently by Ruth McGeeney of Glenerie, the current county queen.

An accomplished seamstress, an important asset in her position, she is a native of Kingston and has two sons, Michael and Richard, who is the local pageant board treasurer.

Her other civic and religious association include the Saugerties Columbiettes, St. Mary of the Snow Church and the Sodality and Rosary Societies of the church.

Gardening and sewing are her hobbies when she finds time from her duties with the pageant. She was married to a local barber, Michael Buono, who died in 1959.

Chamber on Unordered

KINGSTON

If a Federal Trade Commission rule is adopted, unordered merchandise received in the mail may become a thing of the past, according to an announcement made by Len Cane, executive vice president of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce.

"Unordered merchandise," said Cane, "would be classified as an outright gift, leaving recipients free to keep it without having to worry about paying for it." If such a step is taken, merchandisers may find it unprofitable to send unordered items to unsuspecting homeowners.

The National Better Business Bureau has noted that people are often intimidated into paying for items they received but never ordered. The NBBB stated, however, that people who receive unauthorized goods through the mail are under no commitment to pay for them, return them or take good care of them. The recipient may keep the items in storage for the sender to pick up and he may charge the sender a storage fee for keeping the unauthorized material.

The NBBB also advised persons to ignore threatening letters, because there is little possibility that the sender will initiate any legal action. It was noted that if demands for payment are accompanied by threats, the letters should be turned over to the post office, which will take legal action against the sender. Federal law, it was noted, prohibits the use of the mails as a medium for threats to injure a person's reputation, person or property.

Fisher-Duross Jr.

MRS. GEORGE M. DUROSS JR.
(Dutchmen Enterprises)

M. Teresa Fisher, daughter of Mrs. Mary Fisher of 52 Harding Avneue Kingston, wed George M. Duross Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Duross Sr., of 214 W. Second Avenue, Johnstown, N.Y., Saturday, Aug. 8, 1970 at 1 p.m. in St. Catherine Laboure Church, Lake Katrine. The Rev. Paul V. Sullivan officiated with Mr. and Mrs. James Sweeney providing traditional music. Lavender and white flowers decorated the altar and the family pews were marked with white ribbon.

Given in marriage by her uncle, James Tiano of Newburgh, the bride wore a gown of dacron organza styled with high neckline, camelot sleeves and crescent waistline. Venise lace accented the sleeves and neckline. Matching lace outlined the chapel length mantilla and covered the camelot cap. The bride carried white roses with lavender baby's breath.

Lynne Acker of Rt. 1, Box 317, Kingston, served as maid of honor in an orchid dotted sheer gown styled with high waist and camelot sleeves trimmed with Venise lace. She wore white daisies in her hair and carried white daisies with lavender streamers. The attendants wore the same styled gowns with orchid daisies in their hair. They carried lavender daisies with white streamers. Serving as attendants were Mrs. Conrad Moore of Port Ewen, cousin of the bride; Miss Andrea Jo Pahopin of Plattsburgh; Miss Barbara Tiano of Kingston, a cousin; and Mrs. Louis Mucciolo of Culver City, Calif. The flower girl was Miss Teresa Tiano of Newburgh, cousin of the bride. Dressed in a gown similar to that worn by the attendants, she carried a basket of white daisies with baby's breath.

Daniel C. Duross of Johnstown, N. Y., was best man for his brother. Ushering were Alan Davoy of Plattsburgh; Stephen Bannigan of Johnstown; Miles Donohue of Plattsburgh and Anthony Carlino of Plattsburgh. Master Anthony Tiano of Kingston, cousin of the bride, served as ringbearer.

A reception for 300 guests was given in the Crystal Room of the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Duross are seniors at State University College at Plattsburgh. Mrs. Duross was graduated from Kingston High School with the Class of 1966 and her husband from Johnstown High School with the Class of 1965. The bridegroom is a member of Sigma Tau Sigma Fraternity.

When the couple return from a wedding trip to Canada, they will be at home at 73 Lafayette Street in Plattsburgh, N.Y. For traveling, the bride wore a deep purple knit pants suit with matching accessories.

About the Folks

Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Randall of Malden-on-Hudson are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son, Matthew Joshua, born Tuesday morning, Aug. 11 at Kingston Hospital. The Randalls have a daughter, Lisa Marie, age two and a half. Mr. Randall is news director at Station WGHQ.

The Kennedy Women—Part IX

Younger Kennedy Daughters Also Did Share in Campaigns

(Ninth in a series of 12 articles excerpted from "The Kennedy Women", a new book in which the First Lady of American Literature focuses her talent on the distaff side of an American dynasty.)

By PEARL S. BUCK

Patricia and Jean Kennedy were the last two of five daughters and after them there was only one more child in Joseph Patrick Kennedy's family, a son, Edward.

The two younger daughters were smoothly welded into the family, parts of the whole, and as they grew they too did their share in supporting their brothers in political campaigns.

Patricia married the handsome English actor, Peter Lawford, and Jean married Stephen Smith, a capable businessman who now looks after the family interests.

Patricia's marriage, after eleven years and four children, three sons and one daughter, has ended in divorce.

As much as Peter respected Pat's family, he never became a part of it. And, as he could not enter her world, she could never leave it.

There was parental opposition from both sides to Patricia's and Peter's engagement.

English-born Peter Sydney Ernest Lawford is the son of the late Lieutenant General Sir Sydney Lawford and Lady Lawford.

Patricia is the second youngest of the Kennedy daughters, the most attractive, the least dominating, the most yielding and gentle.

Yet Lady Lawford implied that she would rather have her son marry an English girl, a girl with a title, perhaps, almost any girl, in fact, but a Kennedy girl.

Patricia's father was equally unenthusiastic about the union. He did not approve of actors for sons-in-law. He most emphatically did not approve of English actors.

Regardless, Patricia and Peter were wed in Manhattan at the little Church of St. Thomas More, at Park Avenue and Eighty-ninth Street, on April 25, 1954.

They were divorced eleven years later in Gooding, Idaho. It was the first divorce in the Roman Catholic Kennedy family.

Pat and Peter seemed for years to have a quietly happy marriage. Not even a newspaper reporter appears to know why it ended.

Peter Lawford first met Jack Kennedy at the late Gary Cooper's home in 1946, long before he met Patricia, and from the first was impressed by Jack's magnetism and drive. In 1949 he met Patricia, who was then in Hollywood, working for NBC and Kate Smith.

"Frankly, I had never known a family like the Kennedys," he admits. He was an only child, somewhat introverted, tutor taught, with all the traditional British reserve. Home to him was wherever the billets of his father took him and his mother.

"The rough-and-tumble of a large gregarious family was thus completely foreign to me, and I became — by marriage — an outsider in an almost overwhelming situation."

The Kennedys were wise in handling the situation. They were devoted to Pat and knew that Peter adored her, so they left each door ajar and waited for Peter to walk through it. They never forced their political and religious concepts on him. He wasn't even pushed into their touch football games.

"Actually it took two years of exposure to the Kennedy family esprit before I began to get the message that the secret was participation. After Pat's father finally 'accepted' me, it was he who clued me in.

"He was an old movie hand himself; back in 1927, he was a motion picture executive, and show business wasn't way out to him. Since he had always been the center of family activities, encouraging his children to join in the fun and competition, he did his best to ease me in." But, apparently, Peter did not ease in too well.

When Pat married Peter, an engaging man with an actor's charm and temperament, she must have known that an artist has his own world in which he lives and he never leaves this world wholly to enter another.

Even a Kennedy cannot change an artist. Of all unreachable, unchangeable persons, the artist is the first, for he can escape any situation, any person, simply by withdrawing into his own world. His is a world entirely different from the Kennedy world in which both men and women are doers rather than creators, and they lead by positive active action.

The artist is a creator ,he does not seek to lead. He only offers that which he has created, to be accepted or rejected, and, whether accepted or rejected, he moves always within his own realm.

Peter Lawford could not become part of "the Clan." He said, "Being related to the President of the United States is a very great honor. But it is not and never will be a career. When the Kennedys take you to heart, you become one of them all the way. My four children will never be loners. They are full-fledged members of the Tribe."

* * *

In Jean Kennedy Smith's case, however, it is different. Stephen Smith has a quiet strength of his own. His family "had money" long before the Kennedys knew the advantages of wealth. Without losing his own personality, he has used his talents and experience to serve the Kennedy family.

He is dedicated to the Kennedy family although he is neither an idealist nor a crusader. He is the non-political member of a political family. In an odd fashion, he is like Joseph Patrick Kennedy in that he made it possible for the Kennedy men to be political powers.

He was a young business executive, already successful, when he married Jean Kennedy in 1956.

Jean Smith, blue-eyed and dark-haired, is the least political of the Kennedy women, and enjoys her home and its privacy. She is a good mother to her children and a good wife to her handsome, extremely intelligent young husband — so shrewd a business brain, by the way, that a year after his marriage his father-in-law invited him to manage and expand the Kennedy oil interests. Now he manages the Kennedy portfolio of investments of more than three hundred million dollars, which he charmingly refuses to discuss.

He fits well into the Kennedy family, for he is also an excellent athlete, admitted even by the family to be the best all-around sportsman of them all, in golf, tennis, skiing and even touch footbal!

He has, of course, been superbly successful in managing Kennedy campaigns. So far he has not shown inclinations to enter politics, although there are those among his friends who say that, whatever the topic of conversation, he always brings it around to politics. I have heard it reported, at least, that Smith himself says, "There's no fuller use of your faculties than politics." His wife is a true Kennedy woman and believes that if he did go into politics, he could of course succeed. One's own feeling is that, after the tragedies which have befallen the family, Stephen Smith will continue to be what he is: the extremely successful, dedicated manager of the family fortune, hopefully providing power for the members of the next generation of Kennedys again to make their mark as leaders in our national life.

Tomorrow: Joan and Ted Kennedy.

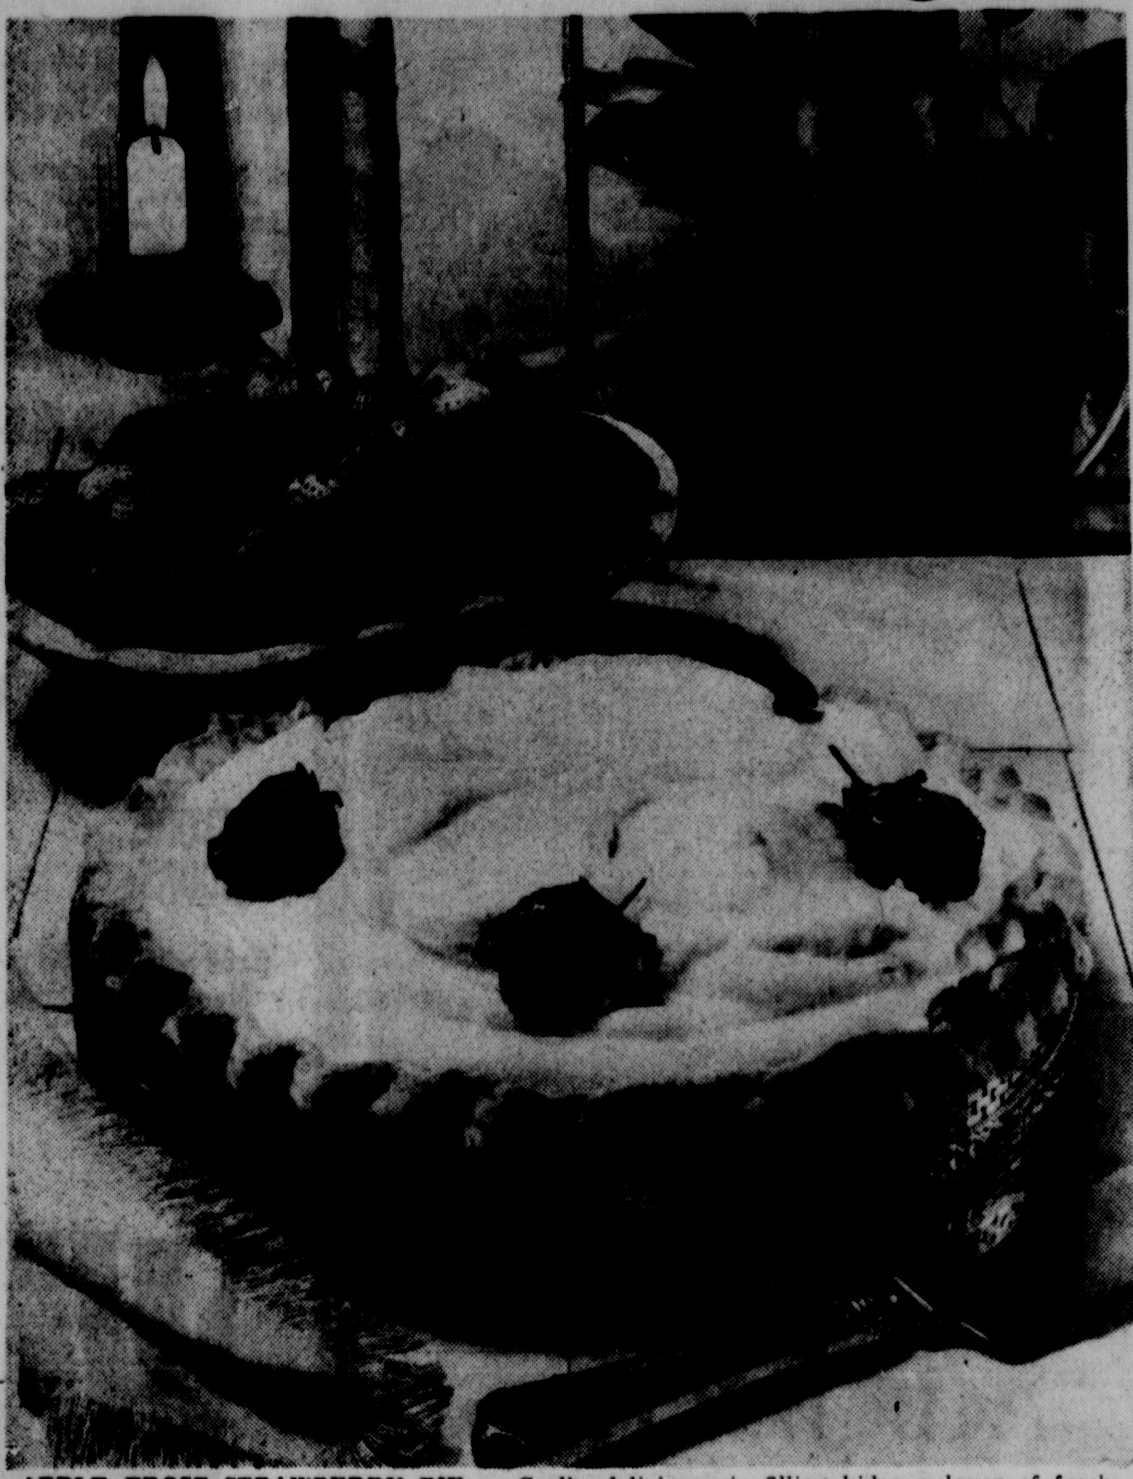
A Dessert That's a Tempting Summer Delight

Light, lemony fluffs of apple-flavored goodness, whirled over a layer of luscious red California strawberries and nestled in a flaky, tender pastry shell, makes this tempting summer delight.

This is the kind of recipe that's easy to "take from the top." Either use a boxed pastry mix or pastry sticks to make the pie shells, or you may purchase the frozen, ready-to-bake kind.

Unflavored gelatin is softened right in the lemonade concentrate (the frozen kind that has been allowed to thaw) and then heated. This is combined with tangy canned apple sauce, flavoring and egg whites, then whipped in an electric mixer till light and fluffy.

First goes a layer of sliced strawberries in the pastry shell, then the mixture, mounded high, concealing the sweet secret of the strawberry slices. Garnish with a few of the prettiest whole berries — a hint of the hidden berry surprise — and set to chill in the refrigerator. Be ready for repeat orders.



APPLE FROST STRAWBERRY PIE — Coolly delicious pie filling hides a layer of fresh Califronia strawberries beneath a frosty lemon and apple fluff. This easy-to-make standby is just right for the summer's dessert occasions.

Apple Frost Strawberry Pie

One envelope unflavored gelatin

One-fourth cup frozen lemonade concentrate, thawed

Two cups canned apple sauce

One-half teaspoon grated lemon rind

One-fourth teaspoon salt

Two egg whites

One teaspoon vanilla extract

One pint fresh California strawberries, sliced

Whole strawberries for garnish

Sprinkle gelatin over lemonade concentrate in small saucepan. Let stand to soak. Heat and stir to dissolve gelatin. Remove from heat. Place in large bowl of electric mixer. Add apple sauce, lemon rind, salt, vanilla extract and egg whites. Whip at high speed until light and fluffy. Layer sliced strawberries in pie shell. Spoon in apple sauce mixture. Chill in refrigerator (about two hours). Garnish with whole strawberries. Makes six to eight servings.

Summery Apple Hints

ICE CREAM PIE FOR A SPECIAL DESSERT.

Combine about one quart of softened vanilla ice cream (or the flavor of your choice) with a cup of canned apple sauce. Spoon immediately into a cracker crust shell in a nine inch pie pan. Use crumbled vanilla wafers or gingersnap crumbs and mix them with a litle butter and brown sugar. No baking necessary! Place the pie in the freezer to set the ice cream. Serve with a whipped topping, a sundae sauce or just a flourish of chopped nuts.

QUICK STICKY BUNS

Bake brown-and-serve rolls till golden. Keep hot and serve after dipping each into the following sticky topping: Stir just enough apple sauce into two cups of confectioners sugar to make it the consistency of thin frosting and adda tablespoon of melted butter. Sticky, but o-so-good!

THIRST QUENCHERS TO MIX AND MATCH

Pack along individual cans or a family-size container of apple juice when you go for a picnic. On a hot day this smooth, refreshing drink blends perfectly with lemon and lime carbonated drinks or other fruit juices, and it's always extra good with a scoop of ice cream or sherbet added.

COOL SIPPING

Serve small glasses full of chilled apple juice along with the meat course. The tangy fruit flavor takes the place of a hot beverage and can be served to the entire family.

Annual Bazaar and Beef Dinner At Mt. Marion Reformed Church

BRAD FIELDS

PAW Will Present Magician Saturday

Several lucky area youngsters will get a chance to assist a modern-day Merlin when the Performing Arts of Woodstock presents magician Brad Fields on Saurday at the Woodstock Town Hall at 2 and 4 p.m.

Fields, who is currently a resident of Woodstock, usually calls upon three or four members of his audience to assist him on stage during each performance. He remarks that audience participation is not new to the theater.

The 20-year old magician first appeared professionally five years ago and spent an additional five years as an apprentice, helping backstage, and learning. He has also appeared on stage as an actor and attended Rockland College, a unit of the State University.

Fields says he feels that for children, magic is mildly allegorical, representing the mystery of life. His main goal in each show [illegible] to display this mystery in [illegible] art form.

He reports that his PAW shows will include the Doll's House Mystery, Chinese rings, a rabbit trick, and Japanese picture frames, among other mysterious and interesting tricks.

Fields first became interested in magic as a small child attending a magic show. He has devoted a great deal of time reading and studying about its history from its origins in ancient Egypt, but says he largely ignores the blacker side of the art.

He has performed locally at The Elephant, the Sled Hill Cafe, Solway House and for the Woodstock Youth Program and has also appeared on the Joe Franklin Show and in two television specials.

This is another of PAW's efforts to bring good entertainment to the children of this area. Early this summer they sponsored the highly successful children's theater production, "Servant of Two Masters," also at the Town Hall.

For information on group rates including birthday parties, call Mrs. Ronald Manka, at Woodstock.

BPW Penny Social

Edith Hungerford, finance chairman for the Ulster County Business and Professional Women's Club, has announced a penny social will be given on Thursday in the Port Ewen Town Hall from 7 to 9 p.m.

More than 180 gifts have been collected for this occasion and everyone is promised a gala evening.

Proceeds will enable the BPW Club to carry on its 1970-71 projects.

WBA Rates Chuvalo As Poor Medical Risk

MONTREAL (UPI) —While the World Boxing Association voted to set up a pension fund for ex-boxers Tuesday, a comment by its chief medical officer that Canadian heavyweight champion George Chuvalo was a medical risk brought a stiff rebuke from the Toronto Boxing Association.

Delegates from 10 nations attending the WBA's annual convention agreed to set up the pension fund for "the large number of fighters left physically and financially ruined after their careers."

The plan would cost professional boxers less than $100 a year and give them a pension at the age of 55.

Meanwhile, Dr. Leon Feldman of Asheville, N.C., was moved to remark on the case of the much-battered Chuvalo. His comments brought a stiff and angry reply from Toronto.

The Toronto Boxing Association asked for medical evidence or an "immediate retraction" from Feldman. The Association said the doctors opinions were highly unprofessional, unwarranted and based solely on one man's opinion."

The TBA also said, "as a responsible member of the World Boxing Association and the medical profession, Dr. Feldman's remarks are not only damaging to Chuvalo and his manager Irving Ungerman, but to boxing as well."

Citation Is Dead

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — Calumet Farm said Tuesday that Citation, last winner of racing's triple crown, had died of "old age infirmaties."

A brief announcement said the horse, which won $1,085,760 in a five-year racing career, died Saturday and was buried Sunday just a few steps from the fields where he frolicked as a colt in the 1940's.

Citation, foaled in 1945, won the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont Stakes in 1948 under jockey Eddie Arcaro, the eighth three-year-old colt to win the three events. It has not been done since.

Mrs. Gene Markey, Citation's owner, said she did not make a formal announcement of the horse's death earlier because it saddened her and she did not want it publicized.

As a three-year-old, Citation also won the Kentucky Derby Trial, the Everglades and Seminole handicaps, the Jockey Club Gold Cup and the American Derby.

In 45 career starts, Citation won 32 races, was second 10 times and third twice. He was unplaced only once.

Citation was retired to stud 19 years ago, but he was not as successful a sire as had been expected. Five of his foals, however, won more than $100,000 each — Fabius, Get Around, Guadalcanal, Manteau and Silver Spoon.

Clowns Defeat Braves, 6-3

KINGSTON

The fabulous Indianapolis Clowns, last of the great barnstorming teams, brought their bag of comical tricks to Dietz Stadium last night for the annual game with the Kingston Braves. The Clowns won the exhibition tilt, 6-3.

A crowd of more than 200 fans watched as the Clowns went through their pre-game warmup routine and then settled back to view the action of the regular game.

The Braves had George Geanuleas, Kingston High School ace, take the mound and he did a creditable job against the former professional and semi-professional Clowns, limiting them to just four hits, one a triple by star centerfielder Booker Eason.

Geanuleas had a slight control problem in the early going, issuing six walks, but settled down to post eight strikeouts against the barn-storming pros.

The Braves combined for seven hits off winning chucker Bobby Jones, who walked two and struck out one, but couldn't score with men on base.

Ray Zappone, former New Paltz High School pitching star, found himself playing second base as some of the Braves' regulars didn't dress for the tilt. Zappone lashed a triple and scored in the sixth stanza on one of two singles by Tom Gallo.

Gallo, also from Kingston High and a fine pitcher, played right field and went two-for-three. Bernie Schaeffer, regular shortstop for the Braves, split duties with Gerry Hawkins at short and in left field and had a hit and scored.

Skip Lyons, centerfielder for the locals, had a hit as did catcher Marsh Canosa and Geanuleas. Canosa also scored a run for the losers.

The Clowns tallied two markers in the first inning as Geanuleas issued three walks and fell victim to an error and a fielder's choice.

The winners got on the scoreboard again in the second on a walk, two singles and an error. The Clowns, taking advantage of another free pass and three errors, added two more in the fourth stanza.

The winners ended the scoring in the seventh on Eason's triple and a sacrifice bunt by Birmingham Sam.

The Braves' loss was their first in 15 games. Kingston will play Friday night in Poughkeepsie against the Lasers as the first and second round winners of the Northern Division of the Mid-Hudson Rookie League battle for the Division crown. Kingston holds a one-game edge in the best-of-three series and could wrap it up with a win Friday.

Nancy Misses the Cutoff

RYE

Miss Nancy Kolln of Kingston, the newly crowned Ulster County women's golf champion, was not among the New York State qualifiers for the U.S. Golf Association Junior Girls Championship at Apawamis Country Club.

The 14-year-old Miss Kolln posted a 196 in the 36-hole qualifying round. The cutoff figure for the 32-player championship flight was 180.

Sixteen-year-old Louise Bruce of La Mesa, Calif. was medalist of the field after posting an 80 Tuesday to go with her opening round 83. She had a two-stroke edge over Laura E. Beeken of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Mollie Anderson, Murro Bay, Calif.; and Karen Dremonas, Lansing, Ill., each showing a two round total of 165.

Hollis Stacy of Savannah, Ga., the defending champion, made the cut by carding an 87 to go with her first round 89. Her total was four strokes over the cutoff mark of 180.

Sarah Jane Stuhler of Amsterdam, the 17-year-old New State Junior Girls champion, qualified with 84-87-171 to place in a three-way tie for 10th place.

The other two New York state qualifiers included Mary Pat Kircher of Rochester with 87-93-180 and Marguerite Mahon of Rochester, who posted 93-85-178.

Miss Kolln found the tight, 6,000-yard course a bit demanding, but returned home happy about her experience in her first attempt at national competition.

"I met many fine players and it was a real thrill just to be there," she said.

Mrs. Blatner in Lead

ALBANY

Mrs. Elizabeth Blatner of Colonie Country Club took the first round lead with a 9-over-par 81 in the Northeastern Women's Golf Association annual Senior championship, Tuesday at Normanside Country Club.

The tournament concludes with another 18-hole round.

The two-time district women's champion put together nines of 40 and 41 over the 5,583-yard par 72 layout to carve out a one-stroke lead over Mrs. A. L. Sayles of Edison, who had a 42 on the back nine after being tied with Mrs. Blatner at the turn.

Mrs. Howard Snively of Mohawk was third with a 43-41-84, two strokes ahead of Douglas Coupe of Schuyler Meadows, twice winner of the state women's senior cown.

Mrs. Coupe rallied with the best nine-hole score of the day, a 3-over par 39, after going out in 47.

Substitute Stars Shine in Yankee Win Over Chicago

By United Press International

Understudies became stars for "one, brief, shining moment" Tuesday at Yankee Stadium.

Second-stringers Jake Gibbs, Jim Lyttle and Frank Baker were on stage when the curtain went up on the game between New York and Chicago and in the true tradition of the theater, cheers were ringing in their ears when the curtain dropped on a 7-1 Yankee victory.

Gibbs, substituting for regular catcher Thurman Munson who was on military duty, gave the performance of his career as he cracked two homers.

Lyttle, substituting for Curt Blefary, drove a solo shot in the third to boost the Yankee lead to 3-0 and drove in another run in the fifth.

And Baker, filling in for regular shortstop Gene Michael, lashed three hits and knocked in two runs in his third major league game. Only last Friday he was the shortstop for Syracuse in the International League.

In other AL action, Detroit edged Milwaukee, 2-1, Washington trimmed Minnesota, 3-2, in 11 innings, Baltimore blanked California, 7-0, and Oakland topped Cleveland, 6-5. The game between Kansas City and Boston was postponed because of rain.

Mel Stottlemyre scattered seven hits as he won his 11th game against 10 losses for the Yankees. He also hit the second home run of his career.

Paul Casanova's "bad-hop" double drove in Ed Brinkman with the winning run for Washington in the 11th inning. Harmon Killebrew belted his 36th homer, a two-run shot, for the Twins' runs.

Mike Cuellar earned his 16th victory with a four-hitter and Paul Blair and Brooks Robinson each slammed two-run homers in the first inning for Baltimore. Frank Robinson contributed his 11th homer of the season for the Orioles.

Bunning Ties Cy Young's Victory Record

By the UPI

Jim Bunning thought too much fuss was made about his record Tuesday night but Hank Aaron certainly didn't have that problem.

Bunning became the second pitcher in major league history—Cy Young is the only other one—to win 100 games in each league when the Philadelphia Phils beat the Houston Astros, 6-5.

Aaron got his name in the record books again when he singled in his 100th run of the season to give the Atlanta Braves a 1-0 victory over the Montreal Expos. It was the 10th time Aaron has collected 100 RBIs in a season, tying the National League mark held by Stan Musial and Willie Mays. Babe Ruth did it 13 times to set the American League mark.

"I'm usually the last one they tell about these things," Aaron said, but he admitted getting 100 RBIs is one of his coveted goals.

LA Edges Pittsburgh

In other games, Los Angeles edged Pittsburgh, 5-4, Cincinnati routed New York, 8-1, St. Louis nipped San Diego, 11-10, and Chicago beat San Francisco, 4-1.

Bunning lasted 8 2-3 innings before he was knocked out by a four-run Astro rally. "I'm in as good a shape as anybody 30 years old," said the 38-year-old Bunning. "The Dodgers released me because they wanted 25-year-old Alan Foster to start and that makes sense. But somebody's always trying to retire me and I figure you should retire when you can't pitch effectively. I can pitch better than a lot of guys in this league."

Jim Nash pitched a three-hitter to make Aaron's run stand up and give Atlanta the victory over Montreal.

Mets 2½ Games Out

Pittsburgh remained 2½ games ahead of the Mets in the East as both teams lost. Billy Brabarkewitz hit a three-run homer in the second inning to lead Los Angeles past the Pirates. Claude Osteen and Jim Brewer combined on a 10-hitter.

Tony Perez hit a grand slam in the second inning as Cincinnati routed the Mets. Johnny Bench added a two-run homer and Lee May hit a solo blast as Gary Nolan won his 15th game. Jim McAndrew took the loss.

St. Louis fell behind San Diego, 8-1, and trailed, 10-6, going into the last of the ninth. But pinch-hitter Carl Taylor hit a grand slam with two-out in the ninth to cap a five-run rally and give the Cards the triumph.

Ferguson Jenkins pitched a three-hitter and Ron Santo hit a two-run homer as San Francisco beat Chicago.

Cagle, Carter Win Features

MIDDLETOWN

Will Cagle scored an impressive victory in the second feature of URC competition. Starting in the sixth spot, the modified ace grabbed the lead from the regular sprint drivers on the second lap and finished almost a full lap ahead of second place Ron Passerella.

The first 20-lap main event for sprints was taken by Bill Schroat of Elmira.

In the regular stock car 30-lap feature, Rags Carter passed Ed Farley on the fourth lap and survived five caution flags to win, edging out Cagle. Billy Deskovick was third.

Stan Sherman, the 1967 point champion, won his first Limited Sportsmen feature, defeating Jimmie Walker.

Bill Dwyer took the semi-late model run, beating out a determined track champion, George Kueck.

Orange County Speedway fans have designated Saturday night, Aug. 15th, as Will Cagle night, in honor of the outstanding performer. The results: Modifieds: 1st. heat — Reutimann; 2nd heat — Carter; 3rd heat — Cagle. Feature: Carter, Cagle, Deskovick.

HE MADE IT — Lee Trevino, who overslept and missed the $250,000 Westchester Classic two weeks ago, showed up bright and early for a parctice round for the 52nd PGA Championship which starts Thursday at Tulsa, Oklahoma. Here he clowns with gallery. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Heat Never Bothers Champion R. Floyd

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) —It's generally so hot and dry down here that the new PGA champ could turn out to be a scalded camel. No other living creature can endure four straight days over this baked-out Southern Hills course. But one fellow says he likes it.

He doesn't care that the mercury went over 100 degrees here for two consecutive weeks without let-up or that Ben Hogan is on record as saying he doesn't know how anybody in the field will be able to take the unbearable heat if it's like it usually is by Thursday's opening round.

Ray Floyd, the defending champ, has heard it all and he still is big for Southern Hills.

Floyd Is Optimistic

"I love it," he says. "It's one of my favorite courses in the whole world. It's not extremely long and it's not short by any means and I've always enjoyed playing it no matter what the temperature was. The greens are small and I enjoy small greens. I don't think you have to make a green half an acre to have a good golf course."

All the heat and lack of rain have converted Southern Hills into something resembling a 6,962-yard blast furnace. The course was considered tough to begin with —"There's no such thing as a 'catch-up' hole," according to Dean Adkisson, the host pro—and now become even tougher in light of the weather conditions.

That makes no difference to Ray Floyd, who always has said the tougher the course, the more he likes it.

'I'm Coming Back'

"I've proven that in the past," he says. "Look at some of the places where I've won. (Dayton, Akron, Jacksonville, St. Paul and St. Petersburg.) I've won always on good golf courses. If you check back you'll see I have pretty decent record in major championships. I've only won one, of course, but I've generally played well. In tournaments where high scoring wins I'm usually up close so that makes me partial to hard golf courses."

Floyd was a hot golfer last year. Hotter even than the weather has been here. The wavy-haired, 27-year old North Carolinian won the Jacksonville Open, the American Golf Classic and the PGA last year. This year he hasn't won a tournament yet and comes here after finishing in a tie for 15th place in the American Classic. But he thinks it's a mistake to discount him.

"I feel I have a very good chance," he says. "I'm not putting very well and that can mess up your mental attitude but I'm coming back on the right track. I've changed my style a little but I feel I have something now I can stick with for a while."

Little Abner on Card

KINGSTON

Little Abner and the Executioner were [illegible] today for the semi-final in the best two-out-of-three wrestling match Friday night at the municipal aduitorium.

The Executioner, 240 pounds, 6-4, is a new wrestler to the local area, coming from the Southwest where he has been undefeated.

Abner has been outstanding since his return to mat competition last year. He had to quit the mat in disgust two years ago as most of the heavyweights did not want any part of the Tennessee wrestler. He has speed, defensive knowledge and a very crushing bear hug that emphasizes his power.

The second bout on the card sends Bob Marsha II of Oakland, Calif., against Perry Yorkstorn of Phoenix.

The main event will find Chief White Owl and Luis Martinez meeting the team of Bulldog Frower and Kurt Von Hess in a repeat of their sensational bout of two weeks ago.

First bout is at 8:30 p.m. Ticket reservations may be made at Spada's Sport Shop in Kingston.

City Playoffs Underway

KINGSTON

The Kingston City Slow Pitch League opened its Shaughnessy Playoff round last night and the results were devastating as six teams combined for a total of 78 runs on 92 hits.

Bloomington Inn drubbed Hurley Haven, 22-4; Mid-City Lanes edged the Jets, 17-14; Frank and Ed's battered Anchorage, 17-4. The playofs continue tonight.

Anchorage had a 4-2 lead after two innings, but saw their slim advantage literally go up in smoke as Frank and Ed's scored nine markers in the bottom of the third. The winners added one more in the fourth and five in the fifth, calling the game on the 13-run "stopper" rule.

Larry Allen went four-for-four with two homers. George Westfall had a perfect three-for-three while Beep Haslam doubled and tripled. Bill Michaels also doubled. Losing hurler Bob Ennist tripled. Roger Steltz homered for the winners. Westfall got the win.

The Jets intentionally passed Chick Boice twice, but it was to no avail as Frank Spinneweber and Jim Dougherty took up the home run barrage for the Lane squad. Spinneweber also had a triple as did John Stelson for the losers. Al Tisch went three-for-four for the Jets. Tony Spada and Tiber Tomshaw had three hits for the winners.

Boice, one of the league's home run leaders, was the winning pitcher while Frank Misasi took the loss. Chick has been faced with the intentional pass for the past couple of weeks, but his team has managed to pick up the slack.

Ross Melville had a perfect night at the plate, going five-for-five for Bloomington, including a triple and a double. Teammate Bruce Fiore had four-for-five, while Frank Fiore added two doubles. Abe VanSteenburgh added more power with two circuit clouts in five trips, scoring a total of three times. The Fiores also scored three times with Melville denting the dish four times. But Lucas also homored for the winners.

Ben Hogan Withdraws

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Ben Hogan withdrew today from the 52nd National PGA golf tournament scheduled to start Thursday.

Hogan, a living legend from another era of golf, told officials Tuesday that his ailing left knee, encased in a steel brace, was hurting him so badly he was forced to pull out of the tournament.

The 57-year-old, four-time National Open champion has been in Tulsa for several days and played a number of practice rounds. But he limped heavily.

Schaffer Stars In Saugerties

SAUGERTIES

Billy Schaffer helped himself to his first win of the season in the Saugerties Softball League as he belted two singles and drove in four runs to give his team, Boo's Tavern, a 10-9 win over McConekey's Funeral Home. The game was a White-Blue Interdivisional match.

Ezzie Swart had a single and a double for the winners. Carl Schintore hit a three-run homer while Jack Lechner had two singles and a double for McConekey's.

Matty Rick pitched a seven-hitter as the Knights of Columbus defeated Paul's Shell, 11-1 in a six-inning stopper. Ed Sinnott was the hitting star for the Knights with a home run, single and four runs bated in. Chuck Ollinger had a double and a homer while Jack Driscoll chipped in with a single and double and Art Chiarot had two base hits.

The tilt was also a White-Blue Interdivisional rivalry.

The Linescores:

Paul's	000 001— 1	7
K of C	120 134—11	12

Matty Rick and Frank Gromek; Joe Gavner and John Danford.

Boo's Tavern	602 011 0—10	8
McConekey's	207 000 0— 9	13

Billy Schaffer and Jack Bartells; Barry Lindsay and Len Robinson.

Maroons Win Sixth Straight

KINGSTON

The Maroons won their sixth straight game without defeat in the City Summer Basketball League by romping over the Statesmen 47-27.

In other games: Spartans 57, Mustangs 39; Bombers 53, New Paltz 49. Vino Platts led the Maroons with 18 points, while Mike Weber had 13 for the losers. Bill Jordans 15 points led Spartans and Ray Gay had 15 points for the Mustangs. Joe Valentine sank 20 points for the Bombers and Ed O'Byrne ntted 16 points for New Paltz.

Mohonk Golfers In 12th Week

NEW PALTZ

Pat and George's Tavern and VanVliet Pontiac continue to hold leads in the Mohonk Golf League.

Low net leaders for the twelfth week were; Cy Pesevento, Pete Howell, Jim Hannon, Ron Mackey, Bruce Conklin and Dom Formisano.

With only two weeks left the real battle seems to be for the second spot in each division.

Bill Straub Is Elected

ITHACA

Dr. William F. Straub, former Athletic Director and varsity football and baseball coach at Saugerties High School, currently professor of physical education at Ithaca College, has been elected president of the New York State Lifetime Sports Committee.

The committee conducts sports clinics for physical education teachers in golf, tennis, bowling and other sports to encourage teaching of sports in which a person can participate throughout his life.

Joan Jameson Leads With 785

KINGSTON

Egyptian Rose Favored at Monticello

Egyptian Rose, unbeaten in New York Sires Stakes activity this season is the early 3-1 choice to continue her winning ways and take the lion's share of the featured $10,625 fourth race at Monticello tonight.

The two-year-old trotting daughter of Hambletonian winner Egyptina Candor and Rosella by Florican will be putting a five race win streak on the line when she takes on six other chancy trotting fillies in the Second Division of the New York Sires Stakes for two-year-old trotting fillies. The First Division also worth $10,625 is an non-betting event which will be held prior to the evening's program at 8:00 p.m.

Egyptian Rose is expected to be facing her toughest test of her limited career in which she was recorded six wins from seven starts.

Owned by Louis and Anne Hirsch of East Hill, and trained and driven by John Chapman, Egyptian Rose whose lifetime best so far is a 2:09.4 win at Batavia Downs in Western New York has earned $21,540.

Regarded as the toughest foes in the one mile test are the trio of Elaine Rovigael, Quick Newport, and Tammy's Rose.

Owned by the Ovigael Stables of upstate Rome, Elaine Rovigael to be driven by John Schroeder has earned $16,080.

Del Cameron will handle Quick Newport, a daughter of Newport Dream and Nixie which he also trains for the Pinedale Stable of Pinehurst, North Carolina.

A 2:07.2 winner at Brandywine, Quick Newport, has won $4,539 from ten starts including one winning performance.

Tamy's Rose, a daughter of Sharpshooter and Miss Rose Key will be driven by her owner and breeder, the veteran Clint Hodgins.

Billy Leese driven by Harry Pownall, Sr., and Cedar Crest Gus, piloted by William Myer, won the two divisions of the New York Sires Stakes $21,791 trot for two-year-old colts and geldings, last night. Both were contested early in the evening as non-wagering events.

Billy Leese, a colt by Sharpshooter co-owned by Pownall and the Arden Homestead Stable of Goshen, went wire to wire in 2:12.1 to post her first lifetime victory in four starts. Rollick was second and Sharp Newport third.

It was also a front-trotting victory (his fourth in a row) for the Clearview Stables Brown Colt by Cedar Crest Duke, who captured his Division in 2:11. Khartoum, with William Popfinger in the sulky, came on strong to take second after going offstride. John's John (Ed Wheeler) was third.

Last night's daily double was highlighted by a disqualification in the second race that moved Majorette Beauty (8) to first after having crossed the line second. George's Jewel, with Albert Hanna, won the first. The 4-8 daily double paid $92.40.

NOW, THEREFORE, notice is hereby given that, in pursuance of the powers vested in me by law, I shall on Friday, the 25th day of September, 1970, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at the Ulster County Office Building in the City of Kingston, commence selling at auction the said several and respective lots, tracts, pieces or parcels of land, as shall be sufficient to pay all County, Highway, School or other taxes assessed thereon in the year 1968 for 1969 and Kingston Consolidated School District taxes for the years 1969-70 on properties outside the City limits, that may then remain due on each thereof, respectively, together with the interest, costs and charges which have arisen or accrued or that may arise or accrue thereon, and shall sell until the said sale shall be completed. The purchaser at such sale shall pay the amount of his respective bid to the County Treasurer within forty-eight hours after the day of the sale, and receive certificates describing the lands purchased, the sums paid, and the time when the purchaser will be entitled to deeds, and after the expiration of one year from the last day of such sale, they shall be entitled to receive conveyance of the lands so purchased, respectively, (or at their option may foreclose the lien as provided by law), unless said lands shall have been previously redeemed, pursuant to law. All liens on property involved in this sale are sold subject to the rights of persons in the military service as defined and established by Section 500 of the Sailors' Civil Relief Act as amended October 7, 1942 and all subsequent amendments thereto. The sale of any of the said parcels owned by any person in military service and used or occupied by him or his dependents in the manner defined in the said Act will be void, and will be set aside by the undersigned upon being furnished with adequate proof thereof.

FURTHER NOTICE IS GIVEN, THAT PURSUANT TO THE PROVISIONS OF SECTION 1008 OF THE REAL PROPERTY TAX LAW, THE BOARD OF LEGISLATORS OF ULSTER COUNTY HAS, BY RESOLUTION, DULY ADOPTED ON MAY 14TH, 1970, AUTHORIZED, EMPOWERED AND DIRECTED THE COUNTY TREASURER TO BID IN FOR ULSTER COUNTY, ANY AND ALL LANDS OFFERED FOR TAX SALE, FOR THE GROSS AMOUNT OF TAXES PLUS INTEREST, PENALTIES AND OTHER CHARGES ALLOWED BY LAW WITH RESPECT THERETO.

FURTHER NOTICE IS GIVEN, THAT PURSUANT TO THE PROVISIONS OF TITLE TWO OF ARTICLE TEN OF THE REAL PROPERTY TAX LAW, THE BOARD OF LEGISLATORS OF ULSTER COUNTY HAS, BY RESOLUTION, DULY ADOPTED ON MAY 14TH, 1970, ELECTED TO SELL THE ENTIRE DELINQUENT TAX ROLL FOR THE COUNTY OF ULSTER FOR THE YEAR 1969 AND THE DELINQUENT TAX ROLL OF THE KINGSTON CONSOLIDATED SCHOOL DISTRICT FOR THE YEAR 1969-70, ON FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 25TH, 1970 AT A BULK TAX SALE TO A QUALIFIED BIDDER PURSUANT TO SECTION 1054 OF THE REAL PROPERTY TAX LAW.

INVITATION FOR BIDS
CLEANING & CEMENT LINING OF EXISTING WATER MAINS
BROADWAY EAST
URBAN RENEWAL PROJECT
NO. N. Y. R-107

The Kingston Urban Renewal Agency will receive Bids for Site Improvements Contract No. 6 until 2:00 p.m. on the 21st day of August, 1970, at the Kingston Urban Renewal Office, 436 Broadway, Kingston, New York at which time and place all Bids will be publicly opened and read aloud.

Bids are invited upon the items of work for site improvements: cleaning and cement lining of existing water mains and related appurtenances in Broadway.

Contract Documents, including Drawings and Technical Specifications, are on file at the office of Kingston Urban Renewal Agency at 436 Broadway, Kingston, New York.

Copies of the Contract Documents may be obtained by depositing $25.00 with the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency for each set of documents so obtained. Each such deposit will be refunded if the Drawings and Contract Documents are returned in good condition within 10 days after Bid opening.

A certified check or bank draft, payable to the order of Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, or negotiable U.S. Government bonds (at par value), or a satisfactory Bid Bond executed by the Bidder and an acceptable surety, in an amount equal to five per cent (5%) of the total of Bid for Site Preparation shall be submitted with each bid.

Attention is called to the fact that not less than the minimum salaries and wages as set forth in the Contract Documents must be paid on this project, and that the Contractor must ensure that employes and applicants for employment are not discriminated against because of their race, creed, color, religion, sex, or national origin. The Kingston Urban Renewal Agency reserves the right to reject any or all Bids or to waive any informalities in the bidding.

Bids may be held by the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency for a period not to exceed thirty (30) days from the date of the opening of Bids for the purpose of reviewing the Bids and investigating the qualifications of Bidders, prior to awarding of the Contract.

EMPLOYMENT

ATTENTION JOB APPLICANTS
The Daily Freeman does not knowingly accept Help Wanted ads from employers covered by the Fair Labor Standards Act if they offer less than the legal minimum wage or fail to pay at least time and one-half for overtime hours. The minimum wage for employment covered by the FISA prior to the 1966 Amendments is $1.85 an hour with overtime pay required after 40 hours a week. Jobs covered as a result of the 1966 Amendments require $1.30 an hour minimum with overtime pay required after 40 hours a week. For specific information contact the Wage and Hour Office of the U. S. Department of Labor, 331 Gerard Ave., Bronx, N. Y. 10452, WYandotte 2-1235.

IMPORTANT NOTICE: The New York State Law against Discrimination and the Federal Civil Rights Act of 1964 prohibits discrimination in employment because of sex unless based on a bona fide occupational qualification. Help Wanted and Situation Wanted advertisements are arranged in columns captioned "Male" and "Female" for the convenience of readers and are not intended as an unlawful limitation or discrimination based on sex.

Dear Abby

He Has 'Chaste' Ideas

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am 19 and my fiance is 26. Ernie is very quiet, but he is not dumb. In fact he went all thru college on scholarships and has the I.Q. of a genius. Ernie says I'm the first girl he's ever been in love with and I'm sure it's true because I had to teach him how to kiss which I didn't mind because he caught on real fast.

I am a virgin and Ernie wants me to stay that way until we get married in December so he made a regular chastity belt out of leather and metal, like they used to wear back in the days of the Crusades. He did a lot of research on it. He says it's not that he dosen't trust me, but with the new morality making sex so casual these days he doesn't want to take any chances. Also he says there are a lot of hopped up crazy fellows running around nowadays and he wants me to be protected against rapists. There is only one key to this thing and he will carry it.

Abby, I don't date anyone but Ernie and have no desire to. Also, I am not afraid of rapists. Should I wear this contraption as a favor to Ernie? He says if I really love him, I will.

ERNIE'S GIRL

DEAR GIRL: Tell your "genius" that when HE fashions a chastity belt for HIMSELF and gives you the case key, you will wear one. You didn't say whether Ernie expects you to wear this harness after you're married, but if I peg this ding-a-ling right, if you agree to wear it at all, it will become a part of your permanent attire.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: An otherwise charming woman I know always arrives 45 minutes to an hour late for dinner. She always sails in radiant and well pleased with herself in spite of the fact that she has ruined a meal that took much time and money to prepare. She claims she is not "geared" to look at a clock, but on those occasions when it is important to HER to be on time, she can do it.

I claim she is chronically late because it makes her feel "important" to keep everyone waiting, and to make a grand entrance. What do you think?

A VALLEYITE

DEAR VALLEYITE: If your chronically late friend actually causes them to partake of "ruined" meals, then she MUST be "important." A habitual late arriver could be taught a lesson if her "grand entrance" is ignored, and all the guests are busily engrossed in their desserts.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I have a boy friend I like a lot, but he does something that really bugs me. When we have a date, after he brings me home (about midnight) he goes out and stops at different hangouts around town to have a beer with some of the kids. He doesn't sneak about it, he tells me afterwards where he went and whom he talked to. Sometimes he stays out until two or three in the morning.

I think it's dirty of a guy to take a date home and then go out by himself, even tho our date is over. Please tell me what you think, Abby? If I'm wrong, I'll get off his back about it.

BUGGED

DEAR BUG: As long as your boy friend doesn't rush you home in order to make the rounds of the hangouts without you, you have no reason to complain. And if you like being his "girl friend," my advice to you is to get off his back or he may get the idea that you are too possessive and a bit bossy.

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO GORDY: Don't marry for money. You can borrow it much cheaper.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Letter writing can be a breeze. For Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Jean Adams'

TEEN FORUM

FATHER AND SON: (Q.) In the winter I go to a military school away from home and my father worries about me. He is a judge in a juvenile court and he knows a lot of bad boys.

I'm home now for the summer. When I'm home he worries when I just walk around town. He's afraid some of the boys he's had in court may jump me.

He can't seem to see that a boy needs to have some fun. I wanted to go to Chicago for a few days this summer with a friend at school, so in May I wrote home to ask permission. Here is what my dad wrote back:

"As for our reasons for saying no to Chicago—it's not that you're a bit young, not that Chicago is a bit far, not that it's too expensive—just a sort of a combination of all of that plus the feeling that we are not the Beautiful People, we don't belong to the Jet Set, and you mustn't get the idea that you or we can do these things as freely as other people. I can't explain it very well, but if you can go that far for a weekend for a little pleasure at the age of 15 or 16, what will you do for kicks when you are 18 or 19? If you take after some of your ancestors you perhaps may have 75 more years to fill with useful activity and you may decide to stop off at the moon on your way to Mars or something, but let's take it easy."

What is a boy supposed to do with a father like that?—No fun in Oklahoma.

(A.) Honor him and value him and love him. He may not be a Jet Setter, but he is wise about teen-agers and the hurry some of them are in. Yes, he is much wiser than the parents of many of the boys and girls who write me. You are fortunate to have him.

(Want personal answers to your questions? Write to Jean Adams. Box 2402 Houston, Texas 77001 Only letters that include a stamped, self-addressed envelope will be answered.)

horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Although a certain communication can cause you to wonder whether you are doing things just right, you need to doublecheck your comments and writing. You also have a great deal of energy and find that one in an important position is wlling to listen to what you have to say and aid you progress.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Put aside monetary affairs for the time being and look into new activities that can bring greater success in the future. You are able to gain your aim more quickly right now. Be happy.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Forget recreation right now and get busy on important duties ahead of you. Do them meliculously. Loved one wants you near. Be sure you do not spend too much time elsewhere.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Do whatever you can to get the cooperation of an associate, but steer clear of one at home who disapproves of your plan. Eliminate that fault that annoys partner. Do some reading tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Make sure to finish your work early before you go ideas of others and don't rely to new interests. Be sure to keep promises you have made to co-workers. Do some studying tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Put aside money matters for the time being and go out and have a good time. Be with congenials and express ithose fine lalents you ahve. Show that you have an excelllent sense of humor.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Be sure you get family affairs handled nicely and with the cooperation of others. Do not lose your temper. Listen to the ideas of others and don't rely simply on your own judgement.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have a worry that could stop you from accomplishing a great deal in the outside world, if you permit. Get busy with shopping. Keep appointments you have made.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Pals are quite forceful in demanding that you do as they desire, so avoid them and start analyzing own affairs, improving financial ones especially. Get ahead faster through own efforts. Show more wisdom than in the past.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You can handle many personal affairs very successfully now, so don't get bogged down with other things that are less important right now. Pals will give you information you want. Listen attentively to them.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Do whatever you can to solve personal worries and forget new interest which take time to study. Some communication could be worrisome but put it aside for now. Show that you are romantic tonight.

AQUARIUS Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be with good and charming friends today during spare time and enjoy the social that appeals to you. An expert does not understand your affairs too well. avoid this person right now and use own judgment.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Go ahead and meet the expectations of higher-ups despite the stubborn partner who tries to dissuade you. Get ahead faster. Show intelligence and improve present image.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those fascinating young people who needs change to make life fruitful and successful, so be sure not to criticize because the mind is a very inquisitive one. Give the right education that will bring out finest talents in this interesting earth. Give an opportunity to meet numerous friends of every nationality and in every walk of life. Religious training is imperative.

Milner Counts Blessings

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — During Martin Milner's 10 years on television, six have been behind the wheel of an automobile.

Milner guided a sports car through four hectic years of "Route 66." Most of the time, his partner in adventure was George Maharis.

When the series went into syndication, Milner moved on to motion pictures and some TV guest shots. Two years ago he climbed into the driver's seat again, this time as Officer Pete Malloy, shield 744 of "Adam 12," Jack Webb's tribute to patrol-car policemen with incidents adapted, as in "Dragnet," from the Los Angeles department's files.

"Adam 12"—radio identification of the squad car—now goes into its third season, with Milner happily adjusted to police procedures and still counting his blessings. The series hay have two days of shooting on location for every one in the studio, but the locations are in Los Angeles. "Route 66," by contrast, was filmed entirely on location all over the United States.

Milner now is so securely blocked into Southern California and the five-day week that he recently acquired a 24-acre avocado farm just north of San Diego where he is building a new home for his family, which includes three children.

Where "Dragnet" concentrated on one crime from the call for detectives to solution, Adam 12" purports to reflect the average day of a patrol car team. Milner and his partner, a probationer played by Kent McCord, are likely to handle in rapid succession incidents ranging from a quarreling couple to homicide.

"There is a real police officer assigned to the series—he's from the department's public information office," Milner said. "He checks scripts and action and is around to give us advice on handling situations. If we're rolling in on an armed robbery, for instance, he'll tell us how to disperse police personnel. Recently he showed us how to cuff two men together in a situation where we had only one set of handcuffs."

Milner and McCord now are skilled in the proper handling of evidence.

"We would never pick up a gun with a handkerchief," he said. "That might smudge any prints. We would pick it up by inserting a pencil in the barrel or by the triggerguard."

During the seasons when television was under heavy criticism for violence in entertainment shows, cops-and-robbers stories were out of favor with network programmers. In recent seasons, however, they have been making a come-back. When September premiers start, police-action will be one of the most popular categories in prime evening time.

If you can make four hearts without looking at the East and West cards, consider yourself and expert. Maybe not quite as good as Edgar Kaplan of New York, who played and made the contract, but good enough so that your dummy play will stand up against almost anyone.

In fact, if you can make it after seeing all the cards, you are a very good dummy player.

Edgar ruffed the second spade and studied the hand very carefully. He wanted to be able to ruff a diamond in dummy. If he went right after diamonds, East would surely get in with the ace and lead a third spade. West would overruff and, if East happened to hold three trumps, Edbar would be set.

How about playing out his ace and king of trumps first? Again, if East held three trumps and the diamond ace, things wouldn't work out.

Eventually Edgar saw a way to have his cake and eat it, too. He did draw two rounds of trumps, stopping in dummy. Then he played dummy's deuce of diamonds. East couldn't afford to play the ace and put in the jack, so Edgar took his king.

Then he played ace-king-jack of clubs, overtaking the jack with dummy's queen. East couldn't afford to ruff, since he would be unable to lead that third round of trumps. Now Edgar ruffed a spade with his next-to-last trump and led the three of clubs to dummy's nine. Once more East had to discard. Now Edgar led dummy's last spade and ruffed it with his last trump.

This left him with 10 tricks in and that was all he needed.

Reds Attack Base, Details Are Sketchy

SAIGON (UPI)—North Vietnamese troops attacked a South Vietnamese infantry position today near a besieged mountain top artillery base on the Laotian border and kept up a mortar barrage against the outpost.

An estimated company of North Vietnamese troops, part of the nearly 2,000 Hanoi government forces around the base, attacked the position of a South Vietnamese company a half-mile from fire support base O'Reilly just before dawn.

No casualty reports were given and early details were sketchy.

The base is 26 miles west of Hue and 12 miles east of the Laotian border.

The Communists hit O'Reilly with 20 82mm mortar rounds Tuesday night.

Three Helicopters Struck

U.S. B52 bombers flew more strikes along the Laotian border near O'Reilly Tuesday and Communist gunfire struck three U.S. helicopters flying reconnaissance missions near the base. There were no casualties and all the choppers made it back to their bases.

South Vietnamese commanders said the North Vietnamese were trying to pick off the American bases one by one to remove the means by which Allied artillery shells Communist supply lines leading from Laos to the populous coastal plains to the east.

Battle communiques said South Vietnamese troops fought two other battles Tuesday in the Mekong Delta and in the Parrot's Beak sector of Cambodia.

South Vietnamese rangers backed by fighter-bomber strikes and artillery killed 45 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese in the Parrot's Beak, the spokesmen said, at a cost of 15 rangers killed and 70 wounded.

Government Troops Kill 51

In the Mekong Delta, 43 miles south-southwest of Saigon, a task force of the government 7th Infantry Division killed 51 Communist troops. South Vietnamese casualties were reported light.

In a delayed report, the U.S. Command said helicopter crewmen of the Americal Division killed 33 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong 25 miles west-southwest of Quang Ngai City. There were no American casualties.

Reports from Phnom Penh said AC47 helicopter gunships used floodlights to spray vast areas around the capital with gunfire in response to reports of Communist attempts to infiltrate the city's environs.

Battle action around Cambodia was the lightest since the Communists began a wave of attacks July 31.

Official sources said today North Vietnam has cut its infiltration of troops into South Vietnam by 50 per cent in the first seven months of 1970, even though they managed to keep the Ho Chi Minh Trail open during the rainy season for the first time in the war.

Mideast Talks Due Next Week in N.Y.

By United Press International

Middle East peace negotiations are expected to open in New York early next week, Egyptian diplomatic sources said today, despite pressure on both Arab and Israeli governments to reject peace efforts.

Diplomatic sources in Cairo said U.N. Mediator Gunnar V. Jarring would open the negotiations with Egypt, Jordan and Israel at the ambassadorial level, conferring spearately with the chief U.N. delegates of the three nations.

A 90-day cease-fire went into its fifth day today. It has been observed by Egypt and Israel along the Suez Canal front but Israel has reported continued guerrilla activities in the occupied Gaza Strip and west bank of Jordan.

Hawkish leaders of the Gahal party in Israel have decided to launch a major political offensive against Premier Golda Meir's current Middle East policy, political sources in Jerusalem said.

Gahal leaders [illegible] that the U.S. peace plan, [illegible] basis for the upcoming negotiations, poses grave dangers to Israel's existence. The party's six representatives withdrew from Mrs. Meir's 24-member national unity cabinet when the U.S. initiative was accepted.

Jordan and Egypt are having similar problems with Palestinian guerrillas.

Palestinian sources in Amman said the Palestinians will form their own government in exile to represent the Palestinian refugees scattered throughout the Arab world. The sources said the first prime minister will be Suleiman el Nabulsi, a former prime minister of Jordan.

Scotts
100th Anniversary Sale
Now Nature helps you get more for your money — and Scotts does too!

The few weeks of late summer and early fall are by far the best opportunity to upgrade your lawn. Days are growing shorter. Dews are heavier. The soil is warm, and nights are growing cooler. It's the one time of year when Mother Nature has all the odds stacked in your favor — the naturally right time to make real lawn progress.

And this year Scotts helps out with special savings on TURF BUILDER, the fertilizer that helps grass multiply itself. Spread it this week end for a greener, sturdier lawn this fall, and next spring too.

POW-WOW OF JUNIOR CHAMPIONS, INTERNATIONAL CHAMPIONHIP JUNIOR DRUM AND BUGLE CORPS. CONTEST

SATURDAY NIGHT 8 P.M. AT DIETZ STADIUM

HOSTED BY KINGSTON'S FAMOUS TROOP 12 BSA INDIANS

KINGSTON UPTOWN BUSINESSMENS ASSOCIATION

Entertaining Since 1939

31st Anniversary for Indians

KINGSTON

One of the premier drum and bugle corps in the Northeastern United States, The Kingston Indians have been entertaining fans throughout the county, state and country since 1939. Celebrating their 31st birthday this season. The Indians now are pointing towards the highpoint of the summer; their 6th Annual Pow Wow of Junior Champions, slated for August 15 at 8 p.m. at Dietz Stadium.

The Kingston Indians were first organized as the Troop 12 Indians in 1939, appearing in scout uniforms until 1960 when they adopted their present woodlands theme. At that time, they also changed their troop's name to the Troop 12 B.S.A. Indians. In 1968, the Indians once again underwent a metamorphosis. They changed their name to Kingston Indians, which still stands today, and their costume changed to one of a more military appearence.

The old name and costume was taken over in 1968 by the Indians newly established feeder corps, the Troop 12 B.S.A. Indians. Youngsters in this corps, aged 8-14, serves as replacements and eventual successors for the older, "parent" corp.

Both Indian troops are sponsored by the Old Dutch Church and Kingston American Legion Post 150.

The senior corps is led by Drum Major John Sottile. Other members include Billie John Ellis, Assistant Drum Major; John Schatzel, Color Guard Captain; Ray Choquette, Music Arranger and Brass Instructor; Ron Findlay, Percussion Instructor; Jim Strubel, Drill Instructor and Bernie Carle Quartermaster. The Corps Director is Ralph Shapiro and the Business Manager is Gerald Sampson.

The Indians' 1970 musical repertoire include Hava Nagila, America, The Beutiful, Good Bless America, Mr. Wonderful, Impossible Dream, Somewhere, Navajo Trail, For Once in My Life and Those Were the Days.

Five-Day Road Trip...

KINGSTON

Thirty-nine years old and still as young as ever, The Kingston Indians Drum and Bugle Corps headed west on August 5 for a five day "road trip" that will feature musical concerts and parades in three Wisconsin cities.

This year, for the first time, the Indians have gone co-educational, featuring a flash flag girl color guard in addition to their "male" guard and American Flag section. Girl musicians have also been added to the brugle and drum sections.

A caravan of buses, station wagons and equipment trucks transported the Indians and their gear to Racine, Wis. on August 5 where they were the guests of the Racine Explorer Drum Corps. On the following day, both local troops competed, in a championship meet.

More competition was held the following three days as the Indians went to Kenosha on August 7, played a return engagement in Racine on August 8 and a wrapup competition in Burlington on August 9. Both Indian troops also participated in a parade through the streets of Burlington on that same day.

A half-day of sightseeing took place for the youngsters prior to their return to Kingston. They traveled to Niagara Falls, Ontario for a respite from the challenging competition before returning home on Monday, Aug. 10.

...Surprise Reception

KINGSTON

A surprise reception for the Kingston Indians Drum and Bugle Corps was held Monday, at Dietz Stadium, according to troop officials.

A spokesman for the Indians said that an impressive list of area dignataries were on hand at the stadium to welcome the Indians back from their trip to Wisconsin. Area residents were invited to turn out for the festivities in honor of the local award winning group.

The Indians left Niagara Falls, Ontario on the morning of August 10, for their return trip back to Kingston. Their caravan of buses, equipment trucks and station wagons was greeted at the Thruway exchange by Ulster County Sheriff's Department deputies, who gave the caravan a dignataries escort to the stadium. Kingston City Police patrol cars also joined in the light-flashing, siren-sounding tribute.

Once at the stadium the Indians were feted with a ceremony. The Troop 12 B.S.A. Indians provided the music for the occasion.

Announcement of the surprise ceremony was withheld until the Indians had departed on their Midwestern trip.

Appearances In Many Places For Indians

KINGSTON

The Kingston Indians Drum and Bugle Corps is no stranger to the pomp and pageantry of championship meets or command performances for visiting dignataries.

Although their list of appearnaces is too long to mention in recent years they have performed for Cardinal Cooke, soon after his elevation from archbiship of New York and former Presidnt Johnson, who appeared at Stewart Air Force Base while still in office. That special performance was requested by the President himself.

The Shah of Iran has also received a special performance by the Indians.

Several years ago, The Indians traveled to Shea Stadium where they performed for more than 50,000 fans between games of a Met doubleheader.

In addition to performing throughout Ulster County, The Indinans have traveled as far west as Colorado Springs where, on two separate occasions they performed at the annual Boy Scout Jamboree. They have also performed in Valley Forge, Pa., Quebec, Candada and in states throughout New England, the mid-west and south.

They're most recent trip incouded a weeklong stay in Wisconsin.

TROOP 12 B.S.A. INDIANS

Troop 12...'Feeder Corps'

KINGSTON

The Troop 12 Indians, "little brothers" of the Kingston Indian Drum and Bugle Corps, was first organized in 1968 as a "feeder corps" for the senior troop.

Troop 12, however, may be the most decorated "second stringers" in the entire state. The reigning Hudson Valley Drum Corps Association Champions, the Troop 12 Indians recently captured their second consecutive Hudson Valley title in competition at the Mother Cabrini Home in West Park, winning the coveted Clarence Westbrook Memorial Trophy in the process. If the Indians can manage to again take top honors next year, the huge trophy will be their's to keep.

In addition to local appearences in Kingston and throughout Ulster County, the Troop 12 Indians have also traveled throughout the state and eastern America. Several years ago, they played for Cardinal Clarence Cooke, after his elevation from archbishop.

When they won their first Hudson Valley championship in 1969, the Troop 12 Drum Corps first place in music, appearance and junior drum and bugle corps. In individual entries, then captured first place for Best Drum Major and first, second and third place for horns.

In the competition held this year, the Indians captured first place in best junior drum major, first second and third place in individual bugling and second place in bugle quartet.

The Troop 12 Indians, like the Kington Indians, are sponsored by the Old Dutch Church and Kingston American Legion Post 150.

The "Little Indians" corps totals 87 members. The corps has a bugle line of 50, a drum line of 15 and a color guard totaling 22 members.

Their 1970 musical repertoire includes, America, Ten Little Indians, When the Saints Come Marching In, Happy Days, Grand Old Flag and Small World.

Members of Troop 12 range in age from 8 to 14 years. The only requirement for membership in the corps is that the boys must be registered members in good standing of either the Boy Scouts or Cub Scouts. Their costume is that of the Woodland Indians, designed as authentically as possible.

Corps Director for the Troop 12 Indians is Burt Ellis; Gerald Simpson, Business Manager; Ernest Gruenwald, Chief Quartermaster and Robert Creech Publicity Chairman.

The Drum Major is Billy John Ellis; Color Guard Captain, John Kelley; John Kelly; Color Guard Captain; John Balogh, Drum Sargeant and Ronald Tietter, Horn Sargeant.

RACINE EXPLORER SCOUTS

In Stadium Event

KINGSTON

The Kingston Indians have announced that one of the top corps competing for the coveted Pow Wow championship flag and the $1,000 first prize at the 6th annual Pow Wow of Junior Champions will be the Racine Explorer Drum and Bugle Corps, of Racine, Wis. This international championship drum corps contest will be he held at Dietz Stadium Saturday night, August 15, starting at 8 p. m.

One of drum corps' oldest and finest participants, the Racine Explorers were founded in 1927. Throughout their 43-year history they have consistently progressed to gain recognition as one of the midwest's finest Class A Junior Corps. For years recognized for their outstanding marching and maneuvering performance, this season should prove to be no exception. This combined, with a fine drum line and young talented horn line, should spiral the Explorers to greater horizons.

Repertoire will be Off-the-line with Mad Mad World, Flag presentation is Hymn of Brotherhood, Concert is I Lost That Loving Feeling, and out of concert with Sitting On The Dock Of The bay, and exiting to a revised rendition of an oldie, Dream A Little Dream Of Me.

The Corps will compete in nearly all of the top Midwestern contests this summer, climaxing the season with a two week tour of the East vying for top honors. The 1970 Racine Explorers, having been united with the Queensmen of Kenosha, Wisc., are striving to not only provide a crowd pleasing performance, but hope to bring to the drum corps world a renewed source of recognition through their Corps conduct. The Chrome Domes, as they have come to be known, comprise of 116 members averaging 16 years of age. The Corps is sponsored by their own Parents Club as well as VFW Post 1391, American Legion Post 76', and Knights of Columbus 4803, all of Racine. Corps Director is Al Guerrera and Business Manager is Howard Dahnert.

Advance tickets for the Pow Wow are available at: Otto's Stationery, Broadway; Broadway News Shop; Frank's Barber Shop, Greenkill Avenue; Shapiro's Paint Store, North Front Street; Kingston Music Center, Albany Avenue Extension; Port Ewen Pharmacy and Grace's Drive-In, Port Ewen.

In Champion Pow Wow

KINGSTON

This year year's "foreign" entry in the 6th Annual Pow Wow of Junior Champions, sponsored by the Kingston Indians and Troop 12 Indians, will be the LaSalle Cadets from Ottawa, Cannada.

Founded and organized in 1963, the LaSalle Cadets are entering their seventh year of competition with an impressive string of appearences behind them.

Last year the 90 man junior corps captured five first place and three second place finshes out of the 15 meets they entered.

This year, the Cadets will be featuring the largest corps in their short history. The 90 corpsmen include 39 horns, a 23 man percussion section and a 26 man color guard. Two drum majors, Gilles Longtin and Robert Nault round out the Canadian entry.

The hornline for the cadets is trained by Andre Campeau with assistance from Robert Meilleur. Robert Myre and Fernand Bilodeau instructed and arranged the choreography for the corps.

NEW YORK CITY WARRIORS

Defending Champions to Return

Defending their 1969 POW WOW of JUNIOR CHAMPIONS title at Dietz Stadium on Saturday, August 15, starting at 8 p.m. will be the powerful "Warriors" Drum and Bugle Corps from New York City. Seeking to snatch this coveted championship from them will be five of the highest rated corps from the Midwest, East, and Ottawa, Canada.

The "Warriors are entering their 7th season as a competing unit as members of the Greater New York M & M Circuit. The Corps is sponsored by the New York City Mission Society Cadet Corps and the Band Parents Organization. They are also affiliated with the Col. Charles Young Post No. 398 American Legion and Gun Hill Post No. 271 V.F.W.

The Warriors are directed by James Lathen, and the business manager is James Cooke. The Corps executive coordinator is Mr. Wilbert E. Burgie. Instructors are: Hy Drietzer; music arranger and bugle instructor, Al Koch as drill instructor, Bobby Winslow as drum instructor, and Tim Bell is the color guard instructor. Drum majors are Paul Braaf, Pat Doyle, and Evans Walker. Color guard captians are Miss Linda Thompson and Miss Dellas Seale.

This years music will include: "Voo Doo Suite", Necessarily So", "Summertime", and "Night Of The Carnival". The concert will be the "Overture To Porgy and Bess".

The Warriors are the 1969 Greater New York and the Northeastern Circuit Champions, as well as the defending Pow Wow Champions.

Advance tickets for this international championship will be available at the main gate of Dietz Stadium from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on Saturday, August 15. Both Indians Corps will perform in exhibtion as contest hosts.

Vanguard Fields Top Drum Corps

KINGSTON

Featured in competition at the Inidans Drum and Bugle Corps' 6th annual Pow Wow of Junior Champions will be a corps that some years ago won 101 consecutive contests, for what could be an all-time achievement record in all the annals of drum and bugle corps. The Vanguard of Des Plaines, Ill., rate among America's leading and spectacularly successful corps.

The 1970 Vanguard fields a corps universally anticipated to be superior in quality to last season's corps, which was ranked among the best half dozen units in America, as proven by finishing close to the top in such foremost affairs as the VFW National Convention Contest, the World Open Championship, CYO National Invitational and North American Championship.

Musically, the Vanguard field program is one of the most billiant, varied and highly exciting ever presented by any drum corps, to provide spectators with the ultimate in delightful entertainment. Virtually all music is completely new and daring. The field show begins with a medley of There's A Coach Comin' In and I'm On My Way from the movie Paint Your Wagon. Next the Corps plays Pilgrim's Chorus from Wagner's Tannhauser, providing the ultimate in majestic dignity, with a big and impressive sound. Poor Johnny One Note has a pleasing change of pace as The Vanguard enters its concert formation. The concert will be The Oracle Speaks and The Eel. Fever, Peggy Lee's famous hit, is played following the concert. That 1969 favorite. Where Do I Go?, from Hair. marks the Vanguard's exit from the contest field.

Drum major is Mike Krueger and color guard sergeant is Mary Sosin. Corps Manager is Tom Barrett and business manager is Frank Pamper.

Advance Pow Wow tickets are available at the Kingston Music Center on Albany Avenue Extension, Shapiro's Paint Store on North Front Street, Otto's Stationary Storne on Broadway, Frank's Barber Shop on Greenkill Avneue, and the Broadway News Shop in Kingston, and in Port Ewen at Graces Drive-In and at the Port Ewen Pharmacy. Tickets may also be obtained from any member of the Indians.

To be tossed from the top of the grand stand and awarded to the winning Drum Major or Majorette at the

HAWTHORNE MUCHACHOS ON PARADE

Champs Returning

KINGSTON

Winners of the Pow Wow Preview held in Kingston on Memorial Day, and one of the most popular corps at that event, The Hawthorne Muchachos of New Jersey will be back in Kingston Saturday evening, August 15 to compete in the 6th Annual Pow Wow of Junior Champions against five other corps from the United States and Canada.

Drum Majors Andy Zietarski and Fred Hughes will direct the corps through its paces. Their repertoire for the Pow Wow includes Miserlou, The Navy Hymn, America from East Side Story, Ye Me Le, Wichita Lineman, Norweigian Wood, Maltese Melody and finally Watch What Happens.

The Muchachos have won many championships through the years and have been rated among the top ten corps in the nation for the past five years. The Corps Director is Ralph Silverbrand.
